15 HURT IN RIOT AS MADRID MOB ATTACKS PAPER

First Serious Disorder of Republican Regime Dismays Chiefs.

"DEATH TO THE KING!" IS CRY OF ATTACKERS

Monarchist Parade Broken, Crowd Tries to Lynch Former Minister.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Madrid May 10 (A.P.).—The Spanish Republic had its first serious rioting today when staunch Republicans attacked and beat a group of Monarchists in Madrid and attempted to burn the office of the powerful Conservative newspaper ABC. The number of injured was unofficially placed at fifteen. No one was killed.

Police finally were called to combat the rioters who continued demonstrations throughout the city tonight. Approximately fifteen persons were injured several seriously and several Monarchists were locked up to protect them from the fury of the Republicans who threatened to lynch them.

The rioters attempted to lynch former Minister of the Interior Matos as he left Monarchist headquarters. Matos who was in the cabinet of Gen. Berenguer was severely handled by the mob which beat him and began to tear off his clothing. He was saved by the timely arrival of former Premier Jose Sanchez Guerra, who gave the crowd his word of honor that Matos would be arrested. On this assurance the rioters reluctantly permitted Matos to leave under police custody.

Monarchist Paper Suspended.

A special meeting of officials was called tonight to deal with the situation, and the government suspended indefinitely the paper ABC, which has monarchistic sympathies. Several members of the staff were arrested. The paper is run by Marquis Luca de Tena, who recently visited former King Alfonso in Paris.

The disturbances started when enraged republicans attacked monarchist paraders who were shouting "Long live the king!" Several of the demonstrators were severely beaten and their shouts for Alfonso were drowned out by cries of "Long live the republic!"

The attackers overturned monarchists' automobiles and burned four of the cars. They invaded the monarchists' hall and tore down pictures of the former king. The mob also stormed the office of the Catholic newspaper El Debate and burned its news stand in one of the principal streets.

Newspaper Office Battle Center.

Shouting "Death to the king!" and "Down with monarchists!" the rioters gathered in front of the ABC office and threw gasoline on the building in an attempt to burn it. Members of the staff barricaded themselves within and repelled the attack with guns.

A 12-year-old boy and the doorman of a nearby building were wounded by stray shots. Police tonight were guarding the offices of the ABC and of El Debate. About a score of persons were arrested in connection with the disorders.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Galarza is attempting to establish responsibility for the disorders. During the afternoon several thousand paraders stoned the guardia civil barracks near Puerta Del Sol.

Authorities Are Dismayed.

Republican authorities were frankly dismayed by the disturbance, since they had prided themselves on the peaceful manner in which the republic was established and the absence of mob rule and violence.

Monarchist sympathizers also were alarmed by the development. Previously they had not feared personal attacks and destruction of their property.

The uneasiness continued this evening when crowds continued to mill around the streets. Threats were shouted to the monarchists and fights followed whenever any one was found to oppose the demonstrators.

The demonstrators persuaded most of the taxicab drivers to strike as a protest against monarchism. Others stopper street cars in an effort to tie up this transportation also.

Machine Guns Are Threat.

Machine guns bristled from the roof of the ABC office while police searched the building for the antirepublican propaganda and for arms. Later the doors were padlocked.

De Tena, who was beaten by the mob, was being detained by police tonight. It was not said whether this action was to protect him from the Republicans or whether he would Ophir Hall, White Plains, N. Y., May 10 (A.P.).—King Prajadhipok of Siam was successfully operated upon today for the removal of a cataract from his left eye.

The king proved to be an excellent patient, cooperating in every way with the surgeons. The operation being performed under local anesthesia, he was, of course, conscious and aware of what was going on.

He responded to inquiries addressed to him on the operating table and readily followed the suggestions made to him. When the cataract was extracted he observed:

"I see the light."

The operation was performed at Ophir Hall, the residence of the late

U. S. TROOPS WOUND 3 IN PANAMA CLASH

American Fires When Native Police Try to Take His Prisoner.

Balboa, Canal Zone, May 10 (A.P.).—A detective and two civilians suffered bullet wounds and two members of the military police were beaten with clubs in a clash between United States soldiers and police in Colon, Panama, last night. Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, in command of the Canal Zone Department, who today flew there to conduct an informal personal investigation, placed responsibility for a detailed inquiry in the hands of Brig. Gen. H. B. Fiske, commander of the Canal Division. Col. Henry Fleet, chief of staff of the division, in immediate charge of the investigation, began at once to gather facts.

From his informal investigation Gen. Brown said he learned the trouble started soon after Pvt. Fred H. Switzer, on military police duty, had arrested a man after an altercation in the restricted district. Switzer started for the station with his prisoner, Gen. Brown said, when a Panama policeman arrived upon the scene, produced a gun and attempted to take the prisoner. Other Panama policemen, a detective and a group of civilians gathered, he said, with drawn guns and joined in the fray.

Switzer, he said, was forced against a wall with his prisoner, but instead of surrendering him he drew a pistol and fired, the bullet striking the Panama detective in the shoulder.

Before the soldier could use his gun again it jammed and he retreated into a doorway.

The prisoner fled, Gen. Brown said, and the Panama police opened fire, during which an Italian coachman was hit in the neck and a newsboy bystander in the leg.

At that time, he said, the narrow street was choked with civilians, all of whom apparently were convinced a pitched battle was taking place between the Army military police and the Panama police. Sticks and stones flew and several persons were struck. Private Gerald C. Leighton was hit in the shoulder with a rock and Private Fred H. Hastil was struck on the head with a club in the hands of a Panama policeman, he said.

The confusion subsided a few minutes later, after the arrival of other military police and Panama officers. The participants were taken to the Colon station and locked up.

BISHOP CANNON VIEW DISPUTED BY GLASS

Senator, in Reply, Asks That Outside Funds for State Races Be Balked.

Lynchburg, Va., May 10 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon's contention that the Senate resolution permitting investigation into political activities "contemplates no legislation nor legislative duties" was disputed today by United States Senator Carter Glass, author of the resolution, in a letter to Chairman Nye of the Senate campaign expenditures committee.

"Of course your committee knows this is not true," Senator Glass said with reference to the Cannon contention in the bishop's challenge of the committee's authority.

"The resolution establishing your committee and defining its duties textually states that its investigations are designed to insure, if possible, more effective legislation against election evils; and since my resolution, unanimously passed by the Senate, was a mere addendum to the original measure, the purpose

Man Sought for Murder of Father Is Found Dead Near Ashland, Va.

Richmond, Va., May 10 (A.P.).—The body of Benjamin Morton Chandler, 38, sought since Friday as the alleged slayer of his father, was found today on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway tracks near Peake's Station. Joe Priddy, railroad track walker, found the body and had it taken to Ashland.

Coroner B. Morgan Shepherd attributed death to accident or suicide.

James Calvin Chandler, father of Benjamin, died Friday morning from ax wounds in the head. The son was sought and his movements traced to Fredericksburg where his automobile and baggage were seized. He was later traced to Peake's Station, where he had visited a sister late Saturday. After this he dropped from sight until the body was found today.

BORAH ATTACKS BRITAIN'S GOLD POLICY IN INDIA

Demands Reversal, Says Purchasing Power of 800,000,000 Hurt.

SENATOR HURLS FIRE IN RADIO BROADCAST

Blames Present Industrial Conditions on Decline of Silver Price.

(Associated Press.)

Reversal of Great Britain's gold standard policy in India was demanded last night by Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The Idaho Republican said it had drastically lowered the purchasing power of nearly 800,000,000 people by depressing the price of silver.

Speaking over the National Broadcasting System, Mr. Borah attacked adoption of the gold standard in India, and said with people "growing dangerously restless, governments can at least afford to undo that which they did and which has proved unwise and hurtful to the people."

He characterized the decline in the silver price during the past two years as "one of the prime factors producing and prolonging the present industrial depression."

Without mentioning Great Britain by name, Mr. Borah said the price of silver was 64 cents an ounce when the gold standard was adopted in India, but that has since gone down to 27 cents.

Other Countries Affected.

"Adoption of the gold policy in India," he said, "took place at a time when other forces were also undermining and demoralizing the economic life of these millions of people.

"Thus, not only were the poverty and the unfortunate economic conditions of these people deepened and greatly accentuated, but by reason of their reduced ability to buy in the markets of the world, the economic conditions in other countries were greatly affected. It added undoubtedly to the world economic unrest and in no small degree."

Mr. Borah said these people had been using silver for more than 2,000 years and still would be except for governmental interference.

"Here, it would seem, therefore, is one place where governments could greatly add to the purchasing power of millions of people by undoing what was improvidently done. It would not be entering upon new lines or venturing upon a new experiment. It would be conforming to the wishes and custom and practices of these people."

Delay Not Understood.

Mr. Borah said of the silver problem that "governments must deal with it." "And it is somewhat difficult," he added, "to understand the delay. This depression seems not only to have reduced the purchasing power of men but to have reduced the initiative and the leadership of men. * * *

"There are always powerful and selfish interests which, even in times of widespread distress, are unwilling to yield their advantage. But I venture to say that if another winter comes before relief of some kind is had, it will be found that it is a very hazardous policy to pursue. Things can not get very much worse until the strong will suffer as well as the weak."

The Idaho senator called attention to the world's shortage of gold and said governments can establish the gold standard but can not obtain the

ANGLO-GERMAN VIEWS ON DEBT AND TARIFF HIT

Hatfield and Ramseyer See Plot on Living Standard.

DEMOCRATS ACCUSED OF FOREIGN ALLIANCE

U. S. Delegates See Victory Won by This Country on Major Questions.

(Associated Press.)

While American delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce meeting were claiming victory yesterday on the war debts and tariff issues which stirred last week's sessions, Republican members of Congress replied to British and German attacks on the domestic tariff.

Senator Hatfield, West Virginia, and Representative Ramseyer, Iowa, both Republicans, saw in the foreign criticisms an effort to lower American standards of living to the level of Europe by throwing open the domestic market to low-production-cost goods for the "enrichment" of outsiders.

Henry Bell, English banker, and Dr. Carl Bergmann, former secretary of state for finance of Germany, were harsh in their speeches before the international chamber on American war debt and tariff policies. They argued unless the United States permitted their products to enter this country under more reasonable customs America could not expect orderly fulfillment of debt payments.

See American Views Upheld.

However, the omnibus resolution adopted at the chamber's closing session did not reflect this attitude and American delegates claimed their viewpoint prevailed.

The resolution recognized that the war debts question could be reexamined at any time economic conditions warranted but reaffirmed the chamber's position that in event of reconsideration the basis should be the debtor's capacity to pay. Moreover, in judging capacity to pay, excessive military expenditures could not be deducted.

The resolution avoided specific reference to excessive tariffs, but said all trade barriers, including tariff "discrimination," should be removed. It also reflected the arguments made by American delegates—that foreigners having complaints could place them before the American Tariff Commission, which has power to recommend rate changes to the President.

The chamber's conviction that efforts should be redoubled to accomplish further armament reduction also was viewed by American participants as a victory for them. President Hoover, in opening the meeting last Monday, called for armament curtailment as a major step toward economic recovery.

Senator Hatfield, in his statement, said, "Our protective tariff rates have enabled us to set the pace."

"Let us continue to lead no matter how many ask us to wait," he said. "Let others climb to our level. That is progress. We can not afford to go backward."

Mr. Ramseyer, whose statement was issued through the Republican national committee, contended Democratic leaders had allied themselves with foreign manufacturers and international bankers in "attempting to dictate to the United States what should be done for the enrichment of foreigners."

He said American farm products were selling from 30 to 40 per cent

Chaplin Says Britons Are Often Hypocrites

American Actor Quoted as Declaring He Doesn't Care if He Never Makes Another Film, and That Patriotism Is Insanity.

London, May 10 (U.P.).—The Daily Express tomorrow will quote Charles Spencer Chaplin as saying that Europe has misunderstood, misinterpreted and bullied him.

The English actor who became world-famous in American motion pictures will be quoted as saying that, at times, the British are the "greatest hypocrites in the world."

Chaplin said he had been misunderstood to such an extent that he didn't care a hang if he never made another motion picture.

Chaplin, who was given a tremendous welcome upon his recent arrival in London and later cheered by large crowds in the various capitals of Europe, particularly Berlin and Paris, granted an interview to Gordon Beckles, the Daily Express correspondent who was at Juan-Les-Pins, France, the newspaper will say.

The actor appeared to have been irritated by various happenings during his visit in London, which he had left as a poverty-stricken young comedian to go to America where he acquired a pair of flapping shoes, baggy trousers, small moustache, a derby hat and fame in the motion pictures.

Beckles quoted Chaplin as follows: "They say I have my duty to England, but I wonder just what my duty is. No one wanted me or cared for me in England seventeen years ago. I had to go to America for my chance and I got it there. Only then did England take the slightest interest in me.

"I asked a few friends to a party after my London first night, yet society seemed to be staggered and shocked and upset at such a social debacle. Then down here I sat one night, patiently awaiting the Prince of Monaco, and it appears that I was insulting the Duke of Connaught." (The Duke of Connaught is the uncle of King George.)

"Who are the people who are bothering their heads about me? I am only a movie comedian. They made a politician out of me, a material sort of fellow, which I am not.

"I am by the way of being a student of history and I know the jester always pays, because the king inevitably kicks him downstairs. The most famous court clowns eventually were beheaded.

"But what happens to the monarch then? In nearly every case the kicking of the jester presaged the fall of a throne. Europe has misunderstood me, bullied and misrepresented me to such an extent that.

Unattended by Helen, Carol Sees Giant Military Parade

Failure of Queen to Appear With King Is Disappointing to Subjects, Who Still Hope Couple Will Be Reunited.

Bucharest, Roumania, May 10 (A.P.).—A great military parade was held in Bucharest today in the presence of King Carol, who took the salute alone Queen Helen, who returned home today in a gay mood, was not present, as had been anticipated.

Absence of the queen caused great disappointment to those who believe that at his recent meeting with Carl, King Alexander of Jugoslavia had brought about a reconciliation between the estranged royal couple. Her presence at today's ceremony had been looked forward to as confirmation of this report.

Ladies-in-waiting, who greeted Helen on her return from a brief visit to Belgrade, said her position has changed in no way. Nevertheless, it was remarked by many that she was gay and more animated than she had been for a long while.

Hope thus was revived that despite her absence at today's parade, some

FOUR ARE HELD AS MAN IS MISSING FROM BOAT ON POTOMAC WATERS

Irving D. Gregory, 22, Disappears; Search for Body Fails.

INVESTIGATION BEGUN IN CASE BY OFFICIALS

One of Those on Party Tells of Plight During Early Morning Hours.

The disappearance of Irving D. Gregory, 22 years old, from a motor launch while on a boat party early yesterday in the Potomac River off Fort Foote, Md., caused the detention of two men and two young women while investigation of the case is made.

Those held are Monte De La Vega, 30 years old, a pilot employed by a boat concessionaire at Hains Point; Paul P. Walsh, 29 years old, advertising manager of the Nation's Capital Magazine, and Miss Helen Schisler, of Asbury Park, N. J., and Miss Dorothy S. Salmons, both 20 years old, of Ocean Side, Long Island. The last two are temporary residents of the city.

The young women are being held at the House of Detention, Walsh is detained at the Sixth Precinct and De La Vega is being held at the Bladensburg Jail.

Search For Body Futile.

De La Vega, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Thomas H. Garrison, of Prince George's County, and a group of Harbor Precinct police under Lieut. Edward T. Harney, searched for the body for four hiurs yesterday off Fort Foote, but were unable to locate it.

Gregory, according to statements made to Sheriff Garrison by De La Vega and Walsh, disappeared from the roof of the cabin, about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, while the other four in the parte were in the cabin.

Walsh, called Sheriff Garrison to the Sixth Precinct last night and repudiated a statement he had made to him and Detective Sergeant Charles E. Manafield, of the Homicide Squad and told the sheriff that his earlier statement had been made to save the two young women "from any embarrassment."

Statement of Walsh.

Walsh's statement in writing read: "Mr. De La Vega, Gregory, and I arrived at the wharf at Fourteenth and Water streets soon after midnight. We were accompanied by the two girls. De La Vega arrived with his cabin boat and sometime before 1 o'clock we started down the river and proceeded to an anchorage near Fort Foote and dropped anchor.

"The party had several drinks and sandwiches on the way down. After about a half hour we decided to return. At that time De La Vega was in the cabin with one of the girls. I was standing with the other girl at the foot of the steps leading from the cabin.

"Forward, on the roof of the cabin, I heard Gregory stumbling about, apparently trying to raise the anchor. Earlier in the evening Gregory had stumbled on the deck, and when I heard him on the roof I came up. I reached the deck just in time to see him fall near the bow and drop over into the water. I ran to the bow but he had disappeared.

"In the meantime, De La Vega and the girl came up. De La Vega started the motor and called me to lift the anchor so as to be ready to circle for Gregory, who was on the surface some distance from the boat, on the side opposite the one over which he had fallen.

"By this time the anchor was up and I turned again toward Gregory and he disappeared. We saw no more of him.

Statement Termed False.

"A statement made earlier today to Sheriff Garrison which was contrary in several respects to this statement was untrue. It was made in an effort to save the girls any embarrassment from their presence on a drinking trip."

In a verbal stateemnt made earlier in the day Walsh had denied that there was any liquor aboard.

Sheriff Garrison said that the statement made by DDe La Vega coincided in every respect with that told by Walsh. Sheriff Garrison will submit the statements today to State's Attorney Allan Bowie. The sheriff said last night that he thought he will release the four today if the story told by them stands investiga-

Mothers Paid Honor In Varied Services

Founder Regrets Way in Which Day Has Been Commercialized.

Hundreds paid tribute to mothers of the Nation yesterday at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery, doing honor to their sacrifice through the symbol of the "Unknown Mother" of the occupant of that hallowed grave.

In addition to the central service of the American War Mothers, special programs were conducted at nearly all of the Washington churches and other programs were held by special groups and organizations.

The Marines at the Quantico base were hosts to Miss Anna Jarvis, founder of the Mother's Day idea, yesterday morning.

After the meeting with which the Marines marked the day Miss Jarvis took occasion to express her regret at the manner in which the day has been commercialized and exploited.

JAIL-BREAK THREAT CHARGED IN ARREST

Miner Held After an Alleged Attempt to Organize Kentucky Mob.

Harlan, Ky., May 10 (A.P.).—The sheriff's department today summarily arrested a miner who gave his name as J. H. Moore, accused of threatening to lead a mob to the Harlan county jail in an attempt to bring about the release of four men held on murder charges in connection with a gun battle that cost four lives last Tuesday.

Those charged with murder are Police Chief Asa Cusick, of Evarts; A. L. Benson, his assistant; Joe Cawood, town clerk, and W. B. Jones, secretary of a local miners' union at Evarts. They are in jail without bond.

Sheriff J. H. Blair said Moore uttered the threat to assemble a mob before a crowd that included one of the sheriff's informers who brought about Moore's arrest. A rumored threat to blow up the courthouse, Sheriff Blair said, led to establishment of a night guard around the building.

Information leading to the indictment of the four Evarts men was obtained by the sheriff from informers whose union dues he paid so they might attend meetings of the organization. Blair was defeated for sher-

Robbery Explosion Is Fatal to Guard

Acetylene Tank Blast Sets Fire to Entire Block of Business Places.

Barretville, Tenn., May 10 (U.P.).—Explosion of an acetylene torch which bandits were using to open a bank vault caused death of a youthful night watchman and destruction of a principal business block early today.

James McFerrin, 23, former high school athlete, employed to sleep in the Barretville Bank & Trust Co. Building, was burned to death in the fire which followed the blast. The J. H. Barrett Co., housed in the building, and adjoining structures were destroyed by flames.

The bandits apparently escaped the flames and took cash loot from the bank, estimated at between $200 and $300.

CANOEIST, 16, LOSES LIFE IN TIDAL BASIN

Earl Bell, Student, Drowns as Boat Capsizes; Friend Is Rescued.

Canoeing took its first toll of the season here yesterday as a 16-year-old student of McKinley High School was drowned in the Tidal Basin when the frail craft in which he was riding was capsized by a wave.

Another McKinley student, also 16, was rescued when one of the Tidal Basin gondolas, operated by A. H. Sparr, of Shepherd street near Thirteenth street northwest, came to his rescue as he struggled in the cold water.

Earl Bell, of 3200 Walnut street northeast, was the victim of the accident. His body was not recovered until almost six hours and a half afterward. Park Policemen W. K. Snider and M. H. Leach, who joined the searching party and were dragging from a rowboat, found the body about 9 o'clock.

It was taken to the District Morgue, and Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt said that he would conduct an investigation this morning and either order an autopsy or else issue a certificate in the case, depending on the outcome of his inquiry.

Meanwhile, Leroy Green, of 3746 Thirty-third street northeast, was recovering from shock in Emergency Hospital, where he was taken after his harrowing experience. He was forced to watch his companion, unable to swim, sink beneath the waves before aid could reach them.

Bell and Green, together with Joseph Barnes, 17 years old, of 3620 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and Robert Stuart, 15 years old, of 1518 Hamlin street northeast, had gone to the Tidal Basin boat house about 3 o'clock and rented canoes.

Bell and Green set out in one craft while their friends followed in another.

Despite the fairly high wind and the choppy waves, they made good progress to about the center of the basin when the tragedy happened.

Watchers on the shore said that the two boys were attempting to turn their canoe about when suddenly it appeared to slip into a trough of a wave. It bobbled for a moment, and then went over.

Bell apparently sank at once. Green says he saw him disappear, and Barnes and Stuart who were close behind in their canoe said that they never saw him after he sank, although they attempted to hand him a paddle when the craft first capsized.

"I don't know how it all happened," Green said as he shivered in a blan-

They were welcomed to the task by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, who simultaneously announced formation of a Bureau of Prohibition Advisory Research Council with ten outstanding leaders in education as a unit to direct scholarly research over the Nation into the issues precipitated by the eighteenth amendment.

BRITISH GOLD POLICY ATTACKED BY BORAH

gold with which the people can do business.

Effects Palpably Obvious.

"Since more than one-half the human family has always conducted, and must necessarily continue to conduct its business affairs upon a silver basis, "whatever their pretentions to the contrary," he added, "it must necessarily follow that a fall of more than 50 per cent in the gold value of silver lowers their purchasing power in similar proportions. The deplorable consequences of such a condition at home and its effects abroad are palpably obvious."

He denied the silver agitation is an effort to revive the old sixteen-to-one issue of William Jennings Bryan or a fight on behalf of silver miners.

He said there was no thought of acting other than through international understanding "to the end that the people of the Orient may be permitted to use it as they were wont to use it before the short-sighted or selfish interests interposed to embarrass that use."

Mr. Borah said the purchasing power of half the human family can not be cut in half by governmental action without the whole of the human family "feeling its stupendous and crushing effect."

"If you increase the debts of these millions by half and reduce the purchasing power by half," he added, "you have conceived and put into execution the most brutal and cruel system for impoverishment, for the spread of hunger and want and disease that it is possible to conceive of outside of war itself."

Paraders marched to Puerta Del Sol Square and cheered in front of the ministry of the interior until Miguel Maura appeared on the balcony. He pleaded with the mob, saying that justice would be done. The demonstrators then departed.

Civil guards were rushed to several residences of well-known monarchists who were being threatened by the demonstrators.

Police said there had been no deaths in connection with the rioting.

Among those maltreated during the day were the Duke of Santo Mauro and the Marquis de Camarillas. The latter was reported seriously injured.

Jones termed his arrest on three counts of murder a "frame-up."

"There won't be any difficulty about my exoneration" he said. "Our work of organization will be carried on regardless. My son, Elmer F. Jones, will carry on until I am admitted to the bail to which I am entitled." The three Evarts officials also denied implication in the shootings. They were not permitted to see visitors today.

Jones said he was conferring at Pineville with other union officials when he was arrested. They were seeking declaration of martial law in the coal fields, he said, so that mine guards would be disarmed. He said Gov. Flem D. Sampson's agreement when troops were sent here provided the guards be decommissioned.

PHILADELPHIA BEER SCORED BY BUTLER

Price Has Soared to $2 Per Bottle and, He Adds, It Isn't Good.

Hagerstown, Md., May 10 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, former director of public safety of Philadelphia, speaking before an audience of 1,800 persons here today, said that the price of beer in the Quaker City had increased to $2 per bottle and the cost of hard liquor had likewise increased eightfold since he severed his connections there. Besides, he said, the beer isn't good.

The Marine officer deplored the habit of parents drinking before minor children, and said that in order to rid the country of thugs, hi-jackers and grafters, honest officials should be placed in public offices. If these officials should fail to do their jobs well, they should be "kicked out of office," ehadded.

Butler said he had been a Philadelphia policeman for two years, and added he would never be a policeman again unless he were called to Chicago. Gen. Butler spoke here under the auspices of the Washington County Society for the Prevention of Crime and the Promotion of Social Betterment.

Tidewater Crops Damaged by Hail

Early reports failed to give the extent of the damaged area but were unanimous in reporting crop and property damage in high amounts. Lightning and thunder accompanied the storm.

STUDENT, 15, LOSES LIFE IN CANOE MISHAP

ket after he was taken from the water. "All I know, is that the canoe suddenly turned over, and I saw Earl go down. I managed to keep myself above water somehow, until they came along and pulled me out."

Sparr, who was operating one of the outboard motorized Venetian gondolas in another part of the basin, saw the accident and speeded over to the spot in time to catch Green, who was almost winded.

The fire rescue squad was immediately called and attaching drag lines to two of the gondolas began coursing back and forth over the water in an effort to rescue Bell. After an hour they gave up hope of finding him with their equipment, and the Harbor Precinct was called and took over the work.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the scene and lined the Tidal Basin as the search for the boy's body proceeded.

Another canoe containing two youths had overturned earlier in the afternoon before they has gotten 15 feet from the wharf, but they were easily pulled ashore.

In addition to his father and mother, young Bell is survived by an elder brother, David R. Bell, and an elder sister, Miss Bertha M. Bell.

SIMPLICITY TO MARK MICHELSON FUNERAL

Complete Rite Plans Await Arrival of Daughters, One From Virginia.

Pasadena, Calif., May 10 (A.P.).—A simple private funeral ceremony will be held for Dr. Albert A. Michelson, 78, famed physicist, who died here yesterday.

Dr. Michelson, best known for his determination of the speed of light, died at his home after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage two days previously. He had been in ill health for two years, following a paralytic stroke.

Complete funeral plans will be made Wednesday following the arrival here of two daughters, Mrs. Phillip Maher, Chicago, and Mrs. Festus Foster, Dahlgren, Va. The body probably will be cremated.

Tributes from scientists to Dr. Michelson's work continued today.

"His success in measuring the diameter of stars is one of the most striking achievements of science," said Dr. George Ellery Hale, founder of the Mount Wilson Observatory and associate of Dr. Michelson at the University of Chicago. "His skill in measuring the velocity of light with incomparable precision is equally characterisic of the man.

"He was striken at the moment when he had just developed his earlier methods to the highest attainable perfection. No mention of his work should be made without reference to the Michelson-Morley experiment which proved to be the starting point of Einstein's theory of relativity."

Heroic Work of Dry Agents Told in Service Citations

Prohibition Bureau Records Rescue of Inmates of Burning Jail and Other Brave Deeds in Honoring Enforcement Workers.

(Associated Press.)

Stories of heroic and efficient work by prohibition agents, ranging from rescue of inmates of a burning jail to unearthing of a widespread bootlegging plot with two license plates as the initial clues, are told at the prohibition bureau in 12 distinguished service citations.

The records tell how George F. Long, 40, of Newkirk, Okla., last January helped 45 prisoners to escape from the top floor of a burning courthouse at Enid, Okla. He assisted in springing a steel door so prisoners not in individual cells were able to reach safty, and then played a hose over those in the cells until they could be unlocked.

John D. Knight, 30, Pittsburgh, at New Kensington, Pa., in January, disarmed a violator who was drawing a revolver. He did not use his own weapon.

A citation of Henry R. Smith, 48, Tulsa; and Henry D. Jones, 41, Wapanucka, Okla., says that in September 1930, they discovered a gang operating a distillery in an isolated section of Eastern Oklahoma. One moonshiner leveled a shotgun and demanded the agents drop their guns. They refused and made the gang surrender without a shot being fired.

Victor J. Dowd, 43, Chicago, built up a conspiracy case in which thirteen defendants pleaded guilty in October 1930. His investigaion grew out of discovery of two Illinois license plates in a garage at Racine, Wis., containing a still. From the numbers on a truck there, he learned the Wisconsin and Illinois licenses had been issued to the same person, and from this was able to build up an effective chain of evidence.

Harry D. Anheier, 33, and Arthur Allen, 40, near Lafayette, Ind., in June, 1930, followed a bootlegger to a roadhouse. He fired at them repeaterly, but missed. The next day they searched the roadhouse, found guns, rifles and liquor. Capture and conviction of the bootlegger followed.

D. F. Widenhouse, 56, Concord, N. C., while raiding a distilery at Union City, N. C., last March, was fired at but ran the man down and arrested him without using his own gun.

B. R. Morton, 35, and S. K. Hughes, 40, both of Kinston, N. C., in December, 1930, were ambushed near Kinston and the hired driver of their car was mortally wounded. Morton, although seriously wounded in the head, held the driver in his arms while Hughes drove to the nearest town.

W. A. Patterson, 38, Los Angeles, last April arrested a maniac who had killed a woman near Bakersfield, Calif.

M. E. Thompson, 40, Hyattsville, Md. in August, 1930, in Prince Georges County, was left in charge of a captured still after its seizure. While guarding the plant he was fired upon but stuck to his post until the others returned.

CADETS WILL HONOR BEAN AND GILL BOYS

Schoolmates Are Selected as Pallbearers for Two Truck Victims.

Cadets who served with them in the corps at Eastern High School will act as pallbearers and a guard of honor for 17-year-old Leonard Bean and his classmate, Elbert Gill, who lost their lives when the truck on which they were "hitch-hiking" toward Chesapeake Beach ran into a culvert Saturday.

Although a Mothers' Day reunion at the home of young Bean had been suddenly turned into tragedy by the accident, the boys' parents yesterday had recovered from the shock of the news of his death and were going ahead with plans for a simple funeral.

Services will be held at his home at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, with the Rev. John C. Copenhaver, of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating. Cadets from Eastern High School will act as pallbearers and interemnt will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

When Leonard's mother bade him goodby Saturday he promised her he would be back by 5 o'clock. His paternal grandparents had arrived at the home, 217 Tenth street northeast, a short time before to be on hand for the Mother's Day celebration.

Elbert Gill will be buried in the uniform he wore as a cadet his parents said is tanight. Cadets also will act as pallbearers for the funeral, which will be held at his home at 3024 Channing street northeast at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. Benjamin H. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

The fatal accident happened on the Southern Maryland turnpike near Dunkirk, Md. Four other Washington residents were occupants of the truck, property of a local concern. They were injured and received treatment at Prince Frederick, Md.

Those injured are Ford Orndorff, the truck driver, 30 years old, 2124 Fourth street northeast, a broken leg; Alexander Hodkinson, 60 years old, who gave an address on the Bladensburg road, injured neck; S. J. Hines, of 821 Eleventh street, and Howard Smith, of 419 Upshur street northwest.

Young Gill, who was 16 years of age, was killed instantly in the crash and Bean died on his way to the Calvert County Hospital in Prince Frederick.

Small Cruiser Sets Mississippi Record

Craft Betters New Orleans-to-St. Louis Time by Half a Day.

St. Louis, May 10 (A.P.).—The little inboard cruiser Grayhound broke the speed record from New Orleans to St. Louis by 13 hours and 31 minutes, when it nosed into St. Louis through rain and wet weather at 3 p. m. today.

The Greyhound made the run from New Orleans to St. Louis in 74 hours to the minute, breaking the record set in 1929 by Dr. Louis Leroy, of Memphis, who sent his boat Bogie over the run in 87 hours and 31 minutes.

The Greyhound carried its owner, Frederick Smith; Pilot Harvey Brown, Engineer Grady Lyle and Edmund Higgins, son of the builder of the craft, when it docked here.

The only mishap of the trip was a bent propeller. Smith said heavy weather was encountered all along the way.

FORT EUSTIS FORCE TO MAKE JOURNEY

Army's Mechanized Unit to Take 600-Mile Trip To and From Fort Bragg.

Fort Eustis, Va., May 10 (A.P.).—The Army's mechanized force stationed here will undergo an extensive field and road test during the course of a 600-mile practice march to and from Fort Bragg, beginning this week, probably Wednesday, according to plans drawn by the unit commander under the direction of the War Department. Col. Daniel Van Voorhis, Cavalry, comands the force.

The distance to be covered each way will be about 300 miles. The force, marching by easy stages, will cover it in about two and one-half days. It will be the longest march thus far undertaken by the mechanized force, which was organized at Fort Eustis about a year ago. The force consists of 35 officers, 630 enlisted men and 150 motor vehicles.

These vehicles are practically all new and make up the only unit of its kind in the Army. The column in march will include tanks, armored cars, radio tanks, radio armored cars, motorized machine guns, self-propelled field artillery, machine shops mounted on trucks, generator trucks, wrecking trucks, cross-country passenger cars and various types of cargo vehicles.

Purposes of the march as outlined by the War Department will be to test the mechanical sufficiency of the equipment; to determine rates of march and test means of control of its several columns; to test its organization and means of march security; to determine requirements of individual equipment; the radius of action and fuel supply of its several types of vehicles, and, in general, to give it the shaking down of a period of field service.

En route to Fort Bragg the force will camp the first night in the vicinity of Jackson, N. C., and for the second night near Raleigh, N. C., passing through Denbigh, Hilton Village, over the James River Bridge and through Driver and Suffolk, in Virginia, and Corapeake, Sunbury, Roduco, Winton, Murfreesboro, Conway, Jackson, Weldon, Littleton, Macon, Norlina, Middleburg, Henderson, Mittrell, Franklinton, Youngeville, Wake Forest, Raleigh, Cary, Apex, Newhill, Moncure, Sanford, Jonesboro, Swann, Olivia, Spout Springs and Manchester, in North Carolina.

BRITISH HYPOCRITES, CHAPLIN DECLARES

being a moderately rich man, I do not care a hang whether I ever make another film."

He was quoted by Beckles as saying that patriotism is the greatest insanity the world ever suffered.

"I have been all over Europe in the past few months," the actor was quoted as saying, "and patriotism is rampant everywhere. The result is going to be another war. I hope they send the old men to the front the next time, because the old men are the real criminals of Europe today."

Chaplin also discussed the controversy recently aroused by his refusal to appear at the royal variety performance at the London Palladium on Monday to aid the variety artist's benevolent fund. The queen and poessibly the king will attend.

"What is all this nonsense about my refusing to appear," Chaplin said. "I did not receive a command from the king, but merely a request from a music hall manager called Black, to appear at a charity show."

It was learned Chaplin had telegraphed George Black, explaining that he made it a rule never to appear on the stage. Chaplin also sent $1,000 as a donation to the charity fund. He told Beckles that the money was equivalent to his earnings during his last two years in England, prior to going to America

IT'S NOT "just a formality"

When a fast talker says the written contract is "just a formality," "merely red tape," "doesn't mean anything," then stop, look and think.

Take your time and read the contract before you sign it.

Don't be misled into thinking your signature is unimportant. It's the most important thing you own. If verbal representations are different from the terms of the contract, don't sign!

Reputable business institutions want the people with whom they deal to investigate, read and understand their obligations before they put their signatures on the dotted line. This avoids later misunderstandings and heart-aches and builds good will for business.

VIRGINIA U. STUDENT IS KILLED IN CRASH

Annapolis Man Dies of Hurts; Capital Resident Also Injured in Mishap.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlotteaville, Va., May 10.—Vincent G. Irwin, of Annapolis, Md., a fourth year student in the college department of the University of Virginia, died this morning at the University Hospital from injuries received last night in an automobile accident. A companion, T. Rosser Reeves, jr., of Richmond, a recent alumnus of the university, suffered a fractured skull in addition to a bad scalp wound.

Three miles east of Afton, the car in which they were riding sideswiped a hearse and then collided head-on with a car driven by Marion Baber, of Greenwood. Irwin, at the wheel, suffered concussion of the brain and a broken arm.

Irwin, aged 26, was the only son of the late Glendon W. Irwin, a naval officer, and nephew of Admiral N. E. Irwin, now in command of the Sixteenth Naval Division, with headquarters in Panama. Before entering Virginia four years ago he spent a year at the Naval Academy. His mother, accompanied by Allen B. Cook, of the department of English, Naval Academy, reached here shortly before her son's death. The youth also leaves a sister Miss Mary Irwin.

Reeves is a son of Dr. Thomas Rosser Reeves, widely known minister and member of the Virginia Methodist Conference and pastor of Central Methodist Church, Richmond. He is connected with the Morris Plan Bank in Washington, and yesterday was promoted to head of one of the departments. While at the university he attained high scholastic honors. He was a winner of several debates and carried off a $500 prize in a national contest.

MONTGOMERY SETS HEALTH PROBE SOON

Further Plans for Summer Investigation Will Be Made on May 26.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, May 10.—Montgomery County's public health problems and existing facilities for meeting them are to be investigated this summer by Dr. Allen Weir Freeman, former Ohio State Commissioner of Health, it was announced last night.

Dr. B. H. Riley, State Director of Public Health; Dr. William T. Pratt, Montgomery County Public Health Officer, and a group of interested county citizens are sponsoring the survey. At a meeting on Tuesday, May 26, at the Manor Club, Montgomery County, an advisory committee is to be organized with its membership made up of representatives of the county's medical, civic and welfare organizations as well as a member of interested laity. Drs. Riley, Pratt and Freeman will speak.

Miss Lavinia M. Engle, a Montgomery County member of the last House of Delegates and research director of the Maryland League of Women Voters, will preside. She explained that the rapid development of the county and its increasnig urbanization, due to its proximity to Washington, has altered the character of its public health problems and created new ones for the State and county departments to solve. Pointing out that these departments are organized to deal with rural health problems, Miss Engle added:

"The need to adapt a rural health organization to meet the needs of an urban problem and also to continue to carry the rural work in the upper end of the same jurisdiction is unique in the annals of public health administration."

She said Drs. Riley and Pratt and a group of county residents had decided that "a scientific survey of the county should be made to serve as the basis for recommendations for additional public health service or for legislation, if this should be needed. The survey will cover a study of the general medical service of the county, hospitalization, clinical facilities, school health, rural and urban sanitation, water and milk supply, laboratory service, the tuberculosis problem and infant and maternal hygiene."

Dr. Freeman has been a member of the Johns Hopkins University faculty since 1921 and is professor of public health administration at the school of hygiene and public health.

Prince William Organizes For Part in Bicentennial

100 Residents Meet at Historic Rippon Lodge to Hear Speakers Outline Plans for Washington Celebration Next Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

Dumfries, Va., May 10.—Another step in plans for the George Washington Bicentennial was taken this afternoon when more than 100 citizes of Prince William County were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, at Rippon Lodge, at a reception and meeting to arrange for the part Prince William County would take in the 1932 celebration.

No more fitting place for a meeting for the dscussion of historical lore of Virginia and Prince William could have been chosen than Rippon Lodge, an estate of 1,000 acres, on which stands the home built about 1725 by Richard Blackburn, and later the residence of his son, Col. Thomas Blackburn, friend and comrade in arms of George Washington. It was also the home of Mrs. Bushrod Washington (Anne Blackburn), and Mrs. John Augustine Washington, who was Jane Charlotte Blackburn, each in turn the mistress of Mount Vernon.

After a word of greeting by Mr. Ellis and an explanation of the reasons for the meeting Representative Sol Bloom, director of the Bicentennial Commission, called on the people of Prince William to cooperate in plans for the celebration, and asked that a county organization be set up.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, paid tribute to the history of Prince William County and urged that its citizens make the most of the opportunity offered them in the coming celebration. Former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, spoke at length on the historical background of the county, and Rev. C. A. Langston, D. D., rector of old Pohick Church, spoke enthusiastically of Bicentennial plans.

Mr. Ellis was named general chairman of the Prince William County Bicentennial committee, which will work out plans for the celebration. Chairmen of various committees which will work with him are: D. J. Arrington, William Harrison Lamb, Mrs. Walter Saunders, Mrs. J. B. T. Thornton, J. Lindsay Dawson, Thomas H. Lion, Harry P. Davis.

The committee appointed to meet Mr. Bloom for the purpose of studying the plans and assembling information to be presented to the general committee at a future meeting consists of E. H. Hibbs, chairman; H. Thornton Davies, Maj. F. W. Patterson and C. E. Nash.

Officers and members of the executive commitee will offer a resolution at the Winchester convention, asking for the abandonment of the hose reel races and the substitution of some other competitive feature.

Davilas Hosts At Dinner for Vice President

Distinguished Company Present at Affair to Honor Envoy.

LAST evening the Chilean Ambassador and Senora de Davila entertained at a dinner in honor of the Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis. The season for formal dinner parties is almost over, but the Ambassador and Senora de Davila had planned to have the dinner for Mr. Curtis much earlier in the season, in fact on February 16, but the invitations were recalled and the dinner postponed because of the sudden death of Senora de Davila's sister, who was drowned in Chile the day before the dinner was scheduled to take place.

Senora de Davila returned the end of the week from New York, where she had been for several days to attend the opening of an exhibition of her paintings at the Roerich Museum last Saturday. The exhibit drew many friends in New York, who were at first curious to see what manner of work this very interesting woman was presenting. And then came artists and critics anxious to see the pictures which they had heard discussed. Painting is an obsession with Senora de Davila, and her zeal for the perfection of her work has led to a very marked improvement, since two years ago when she exhibited a few pictures here at the embassy. She has been working under the Roumanian painter, Jean Negulesco, who passed some time in Washington two winters ago, and has paid several visits here to see, to advise, and approve the work of his pupil. The pictures, from the very early ones, show an individuality which characterizes Senora de Davila's work, and which, according to Negulesco's credo, must not alter. He never permits one entity to imprint itself on another.

And so from her successful venture in New York Senora de Davila returned to Washington to assume her role of charming hostess.

Last night's company included, besides the Vice President, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann, the Ambassador of Peru, Senor Don Manuel de Freyre y Santander; the Ambassador of Argentina and Senora de Malbran, the American Ambassador to Chile, Mr. William S. Culbertson; the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, the Charge d'Affaires of Egypt and Mme. Ishmail Bey, the First Secretary of the Chilean Embassy, Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel; the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Arthur Pack, Mrs. Mayfield, wife of the American Naval Attache in Chile, who is visiting in Washington; Mlle. Maieli Pfaeffli, Miss Katherine Watson and Miss Laura Humeres, of Chile.

This evening the Ambassador and Senora de Davila will entertain at dinner in honor of the American Ambassador to Chile, Mr. Culbertson.

Miss Dorothy Kidd Wed To Capt. William Waters.

A wedding of great interest to Washington took place Saturday in New York when Miss Dorothy Kidd, daughter of Mrs. Nelson Sherwood Clark, and the late Henry Jarvis Kidd, became the bride of Capt. William Henry Waters, who for his services in the World War, received the Croix de Guerre with five palms, the Cross of the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and who was recently decorated by King Albert of the Belgians. Their marriage took place in the ballroom of the Pierre, which had been decorated with spring flowers, tree ferns and palms. Rafaelo Diaz sang "Because," by Guy d'Hardelot, just before the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church.

The bride was escorted by her uncle, Mr. John C. Walker, president of the Chevy Chase Bank, of Washington, who gave her in marriage. She wore a princess gown of ivory-colored gros de loudre, made with a V neck and long glove sleeves, trimmed with a band of old rose point lace. She wore her mother's wedding veil of old rose point lace, arranged with a cap of the lace and fastened on each side of the head with a small spray of orange blossoms. She carried a boquet of lilies of the valley, gardenias and white orchids.

Miss Elizabeth Brawner, of Washington, was maid of honor and wore a costume of peach-colored chiffon with a leghorn hat trimmed with peach-colored velvet ribbon. There were four other attendants, Mrs. John P. Maury of Washington, Mrs. Alan Hale of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Anson Carnill and Miss Lassie Honeyman of New York. Their frocks were of green chiffon and they wore leghorn hats trimmed with velvet ribbon matching their gowns. All carried large arm boquets of spring flowers in various shades.

Elwood E. Rice was best man for Capt. Waters, whose ushers were his brother, Mr. Godfrey Waters, Mr. John F. Maury of Washington, Mr. Robert Johnson of Princeton, N. J., and Mr. Alan Hale of Los Angeles.

Here From Berlin

MRS. PAUL MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY,

of Berlin, Germany, who has been in Washington with her husband, who was one of the delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce Congress. Mr. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy is a direct descendant of Mendelssohn, the great composer.

The ceremony was followed by a large reception.

Capt. Waters and his bride, after a short wedding trip in this country, will sail for Paris, where they will live at 7 Rue Mignard. He is managing director of the Martainville and St. Maxant Glass Works, Abbeville, France.

The bride, through her father, belongs to an old Marylad family that originally received grants of land from Lord Baltimore and whose decendants have maintained an estate at Parkton, near Baltimore. She attended Rosemary Hall, Greenwhich, was graduated from the Lenox School in New York and later studied in Europe.

The family has a large estate, Tallwood, Charlottesville, Va. For many years Capt. Waters has lived in Paris. He served throughout the World War, first in the Foreign Legion and later with the American Army.

The late Count de la Jarrie, Wilbur Wright, and Alphonso XIII, then King of Spain, made flights in the early Wright planes in 1909 and it was with sentimental memories that she chose a Curtiss-Wright Condor for her initial flight. The Viscomtesse is well known in Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. James Alexander Lyon entertained at a small tea yesterday afternoon. Assisting were Mrs. J. Whitla Stinson, Mrs. Edward Everett Robbins and Mrs. Edwin H. Marks.

Baer to Leave Today for New German Post

Washington Again Bids Spring Farewell to Diplomatic Corps.

It seems that every spring Washington must go through a period of bidding farewell to members of the Diplomatic Corps who return to their native countries for a vacation and then, through some dictate uncomprehended by devoted friends here, remain in Europe for new posts.

One of the most popular of the diplomatic bachelors who has been here many years is Dr. Emil Baer, First Secretary of the German Embassy, and now, without much warning, comes news he will leave today for New York and will sail on Wednesday for his home in Germany.

Dr. Baer has been transferred to the foreign office, where he will assume charge of foreign relations, of which he has made a special study during his years in America. Who will succeed him has not yet been made known. Yesterday afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Schoenfeld entertained at a farewell party at Wardman Park Hotel for Dr. Baer, who has been a friend of theirs since his arrival in Washington. Both the Schoenfelds and Dr. Baer have made their home at Wardman Park for several years.

Another departure in the early future will be that of the Commercial Counselor of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Witold Wankowicz, who will sail for his home in Poland early next week to join Mme. Wankowicz and their children, who remained in Europe this season. But it is sincerely hoped that the trip of Mr Wankowicz will be only a vaction and that the early fall will see him returning to Washington, this time with his charming wife and attractive children.

The Educational Research Club of the educational research department of the Washington public schools will hold a dinner at the Shoreham this evening. Dr. William G. Carr, director of the Bureau of the National Education Association, and Mr. M. M. Proffitt, consultant in educational psychology of the Bureau of Education, will be the guest speakers. Dr. Edgar C. Higbie, the newly appointed president of Wilson Teachers' College, and Mrs. Higbie, Miss Anna D. Halberg and Miss Jessie LaSalle will be the guests of honor. Arrangements for the event are in charge of a commitee including Miss Marguerite Atchison, Miss Katherine Doonan and Miss Lois H. Meirs.

Mrs. Wahl Announces Luncheon Committees

Supper Party Is McCormick Garden Event

Effective Lighting Effects Cast by Lanterns Mark Outdoor Affair.

Mrs. Medill McCormick entertained at a supper party last evening in the garden of her home in Georgetown, which is at the height of its beauty this time of year.

The garden was lighted with lanterns, which cast effective shadows among the trees and shrubbery.

Mrs. McCormick frequently entertains at Sunday night parties, and at her home the light and inconsequential conversation of most parties is interspersed with discussions of politics, with such diversity of opinion that interest and even a bit of temporary battle is not lacking. Mrs. McCormick, a spirited talker herself, leads the conversation into intriguing channels and brings out the most interesting qualities of her guests.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, another dynamic hostess, also entertains frequently with informal supper parties and the same type of repartee sparkles through the pleasantries.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lubore will entertain a company of fourteen at dinner this evening at the Shoreham Hotel.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Lindsey" (also spelled "Lindsay") is of English origin. In most cases this name indicates an original place of residence in Lindsey (a division of Lincolnshire) England. Some early spellings of this place-name are "Lindesei," "Lindesse" and "Lindesig." It means "the isle of Lindum." "Lindum," which means "the pool," is shortened from "Lindum Colonia," a Latin name which is the source of the modern English name "Lincoln." The full significance of "Lindum Colonia" and its modern "Lincoln" is "the colony near the pool." Sometimes the family name "Lindsey" indicates a former residence in the village of Lindsey, County Suffolk. There is evidence that this Suffolk place-name means "Lind's island." The personal name "Lind" is of Teutonic origin, and means "the serpent." Instances of the family name "Lindsey" in the Hundred Rolls are Thomas de Lyndesey, Henry de Lindeseye and William de Lyndeseye. Some Irish families have adopted the name "Lindsay" as the supposed English equivalent of the original Irish "O Loinn." "O Loin" is a variation of "O Floinn" which means "the descendant of Flann." The personal name "Flann" means "red."

The family name "Living" is of English origin, its source being the Anglo Saxon personal name "Lyfing," "Lyfing" (also spelled "Leofing") is based on the Old English adjective "leof," meaning "dear" and "beloved," and the ending -"ing," meaning "the son." Old English records mention a Bishop Lyfing who was appointed Archbishop of Canterbury in the year 1013, and a Bishop Lyfing who was appointed to the see of Worcester in 1038. The Hundred Rolls mention a certain William Lyfyne and a Richard Lyfyne.

Saturday, May 16, 2 p. m.—Auction team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

Saturday, May 16, 8 p. m.—Contract team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

The place—The New Shoreham Hotel.

Bridge fans, the big event, the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post, takes place this week!

Those who have filed their entrance blanks have been notified by mail of their receipt and given instructions regarding procedure and the play. The names of entrants were published in The Sunday Post together with a picture of the 32 handsome trophies which will be awarded by The Post to winners in the several contests. Players are in readiness for the event.

The spacious parlor of the New Shoreham Hotel where the tournament is to be held will be divided into sections which will be indicated by placards, and each player will be provided with an individual card which will show the section and the number of the table to which he or she is assigned, and will also give the pair number. It is important to see that these numbers are properly entered upon score cards as they are furnished at each table. It will be the duty of the North player who keeps the score to do this and of the East player to check and verify it to the end that each player may be accredited with the correct score.

The assignment card will also serve as a card of admission to the tournament. It will be valid for playing both in the pair and in team events. Those who have entered may play either in the afternoon or evening, the pair contests occurring on Thursday and Friday afternoons, auction team events on Thursday evening and Saturday afternoon and contract team matches on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Pairs will play together throughout in all events. In the team events, however, the North and South pairs of one team will play against the East and West pairs of other teams, and it is the joint showing of the two pairs on a given board that will determine the score.

It is especially desired that players arrive at the hotel before scheduled hours in order to avoid confusion in seating. Players should be in their places at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 in the evening, as preceding the start of play in each event there will be a talk by Mr. Needham, tournament manager, on the procedure to be followed which will be highly beneficial in expediting the game. It is estimated that three hours will be required at each event to play the number of boards assigned to each table.

Members of the reception committee will meet guests and aid them in finding the proper places at tables.

Police Seek Clew In Double Killing

Robbery Theory Discarded in Death of Woman and Daughter on Farm.

Concord, N. C., May 10 (A.P.).—Finger-prints on furniture in Mrs. Criss Starnes' farmhouse home nine miles from here were photographed today as officers sought a clew to the slayer of the 75-year-old woman and her daughter, Ada, 40. At the same time Sheriff Ray Hoover said he had learned of a possible motive for the double slaying, but would not say what it was.

The two women were found dead yesterday. The mother's body, with the head hacked and gashed was found in the kitchen. A hundred yards away in the barn the daughter's body was hanging from a rope tied to a rafter. Her skull was fractured and her clothing saturated with blood, leading officers to believe she had been struck as she hung dying. Robbery was discarded as a possible motive when officers found more than $200 in the home.

Adams to Hear Giant Navy Guns Roar at Phantom Foe

Secretary to Join Battleship Squadron Today for Tests Under "War" Conditions in Maneuvers off Coast of California.

San Pedro, Calif., May 10 (A.P.).—With Secretary of Navy Charles Francis Adams due to join the fleet early tomorrow, the United States battleship force, attended by two giant airplane carriers and sundry other craft, stood by today, prepared for its final maneuver of the season, a demonstration of its gun power.

The force practice, embracing the most intensive gunnery fire of the Navy, will be staged off San Nicolas Island, 60 miles at sea, probably on Wednesday, depending on conditions of visibility. It will be the first time that Secretary Adams has witnessed the spectacle.

The fleet, composed of nine superdreadnaughts, the two carriers, a quartet of large V-type submarines and twenty destroyers, will steam away from the naval base early Tuesday under command of Vice Admiral Richard H. Leigh. It will return probably Thursday or Friday.

Witnessing the maneuver, which will constitute the spectacular broadside firing of the 14 and 16 inch guns from the turrets of the huge floating fortresses at fast-moving targets on the distant horizon, will be Secretary Adams, Admiral Jehu V. Case, commander of the United States fleet, and Admiral Frank H. Schofield, battle force commander.

Moving out in battle formation, the battleship fleet, led by the submarines and the two carriers, with 200 or more airplanes droning above, searching out the targets, will have decks cleared to meet the phantom foe.

Once the targets are sighted, the battleships will swing into line and as the flag "Commence firing" breaks out, the huge guns will be fired.

Immediately the destroyer fleet, representing an enemy force, will sweep in on the dreadnaughts, sending a school of dummy torpedoes at the giant grey hulks as they zigzag along at a 24-knot clip.

Then the battleships will swing in line in an opposite direction, training the 5-inch guns on another set of targets, simulating "Fire upon the destroyers!"

While complete plans have not been divulged, there is expected to be no antiaircraft fire at plane-drawn targets in the skies. The airplanes from the dreadnaughts and the two carriers will concentrate on locating the opposing forces and in checking the effect of the fire.

Features Are Planned For Ad Club's Banquet

A "Realm of Fortune" banquet and ball will be staged by the Advertising Club of Washington at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. A number of entertainment features have been arranged.

FEDERAL BAR GROUP TO CONVENE TONIGHT

Program Includes Reports on Important Matters Pending Before Body.

The eleventh annual session of the national convention of the Federal Bar Association will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the University Club. Every State probably will be represented as well as Alaska and the Philippine Islands and there will also be delegates from the larger cities in which the organization has subordinate branches.

The program will include reports from committees on important matters pending before the association, especially bills of national importance recommended to Congress with approval of the organization. The program also will include addressses by prominent speakers.

Owing to a recent amendment to the by-laws permitting twenty or more members to place in nomination the officers of the association it appears the reelection of William Roy Vallance as president is assured, as an opposing ticket has not been submitted to the nomination and election committee. Mr. Vallance has headed the organization for the past two years.

The Federal Bar Association organized January 5 1920 has a membership limited to attorneys in active Government practice which includes departmental lawyers, judges of the United States courts and district attorneys.

Aviation Professor Dies in Crash.

HUGE CIRCUS TRAINS WILL ARRIVE SUNDAY

Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Show Has Drawn Big Crowds.

When the four trains of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus unload Sunday afternoon in Washington for performances Monday and Tuesday at Fifth street and Florida avenue, sixteen hundred big top people will deploy over the city with good tidings—that is, all will tell of good business for the Big Show.

Despite gloomy predictions of their theatrical friends, the circus staff and performers hoped for fairly good patronage when "The Greatest Show on Earth" opened early last month in Madison Square Garden, New York. The show actually enjoyed the most profitable trade it has ever experienced in the new Garden. In Boston Garden, following the New York engagement, the same happy condition prevailed. This week, the Ringling-Barnum show opened its season under canvas in Brooklyn, and the advance sale there has been all that any of the executives could ask.

There are a number of new features with the circus this year—all of them from Europe. The Orland-Mara sensation, in which Signor Orland dives, with Julia Mara on his back, from a lofty pedestal to land upon his chest in a toboggan chute far below, is at the head of the list. Another importation is the Three Reinsch Brothers' riding act from Sweden. There are 800 performers with the show and one hundred clowns. There are 43 elephants, 1,009 jungle creatures and 700 horses.

SIAMESE KING REGAINS SIGHT WITH REMOVAL OF CATARACT

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, in Westchester County. Begun at 11:15 a. m., the cataract was out at 11:50 and the operation over at 12:10.

The operation was performed by Dr. John M. Wheeler, assisted by Dr. Thomas N. Johnson. Present in the operating room were also Dr. Robert A. Cooke, who has treated the king for asthma and hay fever, and Dr. Hugh S. McKeown.

One of the spacious rooms of Ophir Hall was converted into an austere but suitable operating room. All the essential precautions were taken against emergency.

The operation consisted in the extraction of the cataract, that is, the clouded eye lens, without destruction of the iris. The lens, which is the crystalline body by means of which light rays are focused on the sensitive lining of the eye, the retina, is placed behind the pupil, the diaphragm-like opening which by its contraction and enlargement regulates the amount of light entering the eye.

The essential steps in the operation consisted in first rendering the eyeball and the surrounding tissues insensitive. Cocaine was employed to desensitize the eyeball. The eyelids were anesthesized by means of injections of novocaine. The latter procedure had the added advantage of keeping the eyelids from pressing on the eyeball.

An incision was made through the conjunctiva, the covering membrane of the eyeball, above the cornea, which is the raised portion of the eye over the iris.

Three silk thread stitches were taken through the conjunctiva preliminary to making an opening in the eye.

These stitches enabled the surgeon, after the cataract was extracted, to draw together to their normal position the severed parts of the eye.

Will Wear Special Glasses.

An opening was then made into the eyeball. The capsule which surrounds and holds the lens in place was opened and the cataract was removed by being gently squeezed, first through the pupil and then through the opening above the cornea.

The iris was replaced and readjusted so as to leave a round pupil. The sutures were tied and dressings applied with bandages over them.

It is expected the wound will heal in about a week. The bandages probably will be removed in about ten days.

By virtue of this operation it is expected the king will, with the aid of glasses, have normal or near to normal vision. The king will of course, be obliged to wear spectacles with a special glass lens in front of his left eye, to take the place of the clouded eye lens which was removed. Different lenses will be required for close and for distant vision.

Contrary to a common impression, cataract is not a film or a veil over the eye, but is a change in the composition of the eye lens which renders it more or less clouded or opaque. This cloudiness tends to interfere with clear vision.

Immediately upon completion of the operation a cable bulletin was addressed to Siam. This bulletin was signed by Drs. Wheeler, Johnson, Cooke and McKeown, and read as follows:

"Ophir Hall Purchase, Westchester County, N. Y., May 10. The cataract has been successfully removed from the king's left eye. No complication was found in the operation. We have every reason to believe that the result will be favorable. The king is suffering no pain."

Both eyes of the king were affected, the cataract removed today having been developing for six years. The cataract in the right eye is not yet ready for surgical treatment.

New York, May 10 (AP.).—There were human touches in plenty connected with the operation on the King of Siam's eye today.

There was one absentee from the expected medical entourage. He was the king's physician, Admiral Thayara Chayant, who probably wished more than any one else to be present, for he had traveled 12,000 miles with his royal master to be with him in this moment.

King's Own Doctor Is Stricken.

Thayara was stricken yesterday with malaria and asthma and today was a patient himself in the Harbor Hospital, New York, under care of Dr. Robert A. Cooke, who is treating the king also for hay fever and asthma.

Dr. Cooke was one of the physicians attending the king's operation and was greeted at Ophir Hall with inquiries about the health of his new patient.

There was an atmosphere of controlled tension in the operating room as the work on the king's eye began. One of the women attendants had been ill the night before from the effects of warm weather and the strain of preparation, but she was at her post.

A thick, white covering over the floor of the special operating room made not a sound under the tread of four white-uniformed physicians and five white-gowned women, one of them the anesthetist and the others nurses.

The king lay covered in white, except his eyes. Now and then as the work progressed Dr. John M. Wheeler, who conducted the operation, asked softly of his patient:

"Does it hurt?"

Cataract Acts as Curtain.

Always the king answered with a prompt "no." Now and then he turned his eyes as requested by Dr. Wheeler. The tension soon wore off.

At the moment when the cataract was extracted the king said:

"I see the light."

The explanation is that a cataract acts much like a curtain hung behind the pupil of the eye. When this curtain is removed, although the eye can not focus to distinguish objects, it sees the light clearly.

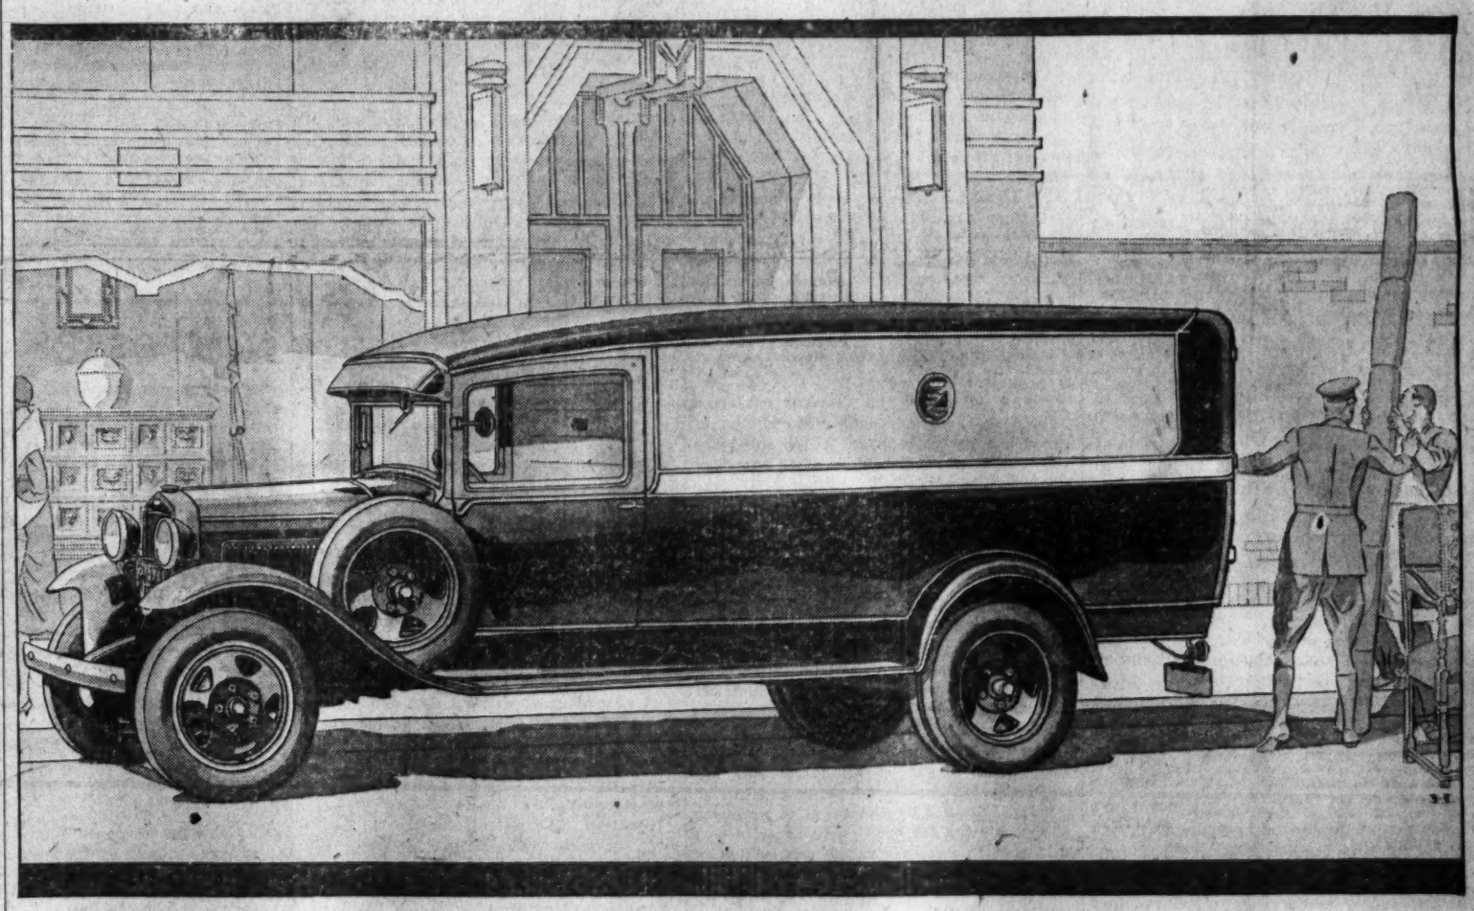
The king's remark was made in a low tone, but coming in a hushed room at the climax of the operation it had the effect of an exclamation.

During the operation Queen Rambaiarni remained in another room not far distant. After it was over the extracted cataract was carried to her for inspection.

All the great rooms in Ophir Hall were quiet with scarcely any one moving about during the operation.

A Ford Truck will deliver your goods

AT LOW COST



Standard Panel Body. 1½-ton chassis. Wheelbase, 157 inches. Department stores, decorators, rug dealers and many merchants find this truck of value. The body is steel. Sides of the interior are straight, with square wheel-housings, and are paneled with wooden slats for protection.

MERCHANTS and operators, in every business, have found that Ford trucks keep delivery-costs low. Not only are Ford units strong, rugged and capable (. . . able to give many thousands of miles of reliable service . . . but they offer many economies, both in first cost and in maintenance.

The wide range of standard bodies and equipment enables operators in every retail business to select complete Ford units that are especially adapted to any delivery-need. Thus, the saving in first cost, with the Ford, includes both chassis and bodies, offering marked economy in the investment for hauling-equipment.

Among the standard delivery-bodies, for the chassis with 131½-inch wheelbase, are panel and de luxe panel types. For the chassis with 157-inch wheelbase, there is a large panel body, which can be equipped with full-length double doors at the rear, or with tail-gate and chains with double doors above.

Other types, for lighter hauling, are the panel, de luxe panel, natural wood, and town-car delivery-bodies, on the light commercial chassis, which is similar to that of the Model A Ford car.

With these bodies, each designed for a special purpose, there is a Ford unit for every delivery-need, from that of the small, exclusive shop to that of the department or furniture store for its bulk deliveries.

Ford trucks are highly economical in daily operation, over an extended period of time. Their mechanical excellence becomes strikingly apparent as cost-records show long service with small maintenance-expense.

Simplicity of design contributes in large measure to the operating economy of the Ford. In the engine, for example, the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems are especially planned for simplicity, assuring positive operation, and eliminating many parts which might require adjustment, replacement, or repairs. Greater reliability and lower up-keep costs are the result.

Your Ford dealer can show you a delivery-unit especially designed for the requirements of your business.

THE GREATEST MARKET.

If an American manufacturer just starting in business were to be offered, by some miracle of the gods of international trade, free access, without duty or restrictions of any kind, to all the best markets of Europe, he would consider it a priceless gift. Compute the wealth of Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Spain and a half dozen other leading nations and it mounts up to more than $350,000,000,000. What possibilities the combined market would hold for any exporter!

And if some new European exporter had a similar dream that by special dispensation of Uncle Sam he was to be given free entry to the United States for all his goods, how would he appraise the privilege? He would look up the statistics and learn that here, in one homogeneous country, the national wealth amounts to more than $350,000,000,000, that Americans have an annual income of about $90,000,000,000, that this entire population can be appealed to through one language, and that there are no tariff walls separating them and no restrictions on trade or transportation.

What would be the instant reaction of the European to such an opportunity? He would say: Keep your European market, with its many tongues, differing demands and multitudinous laws and customs; I shall devote my energies to this great American field, which is as big as all these other European countries combined. The wealth of the State of New York is as great as Spain's; Massachusetts is richer than Czechoslovakia; California has more wealth than Poland; Illinois is as valuable as Italy, and Kansas for affluence equals Holland."

A graphic demonstration of the appreciation of the value of the American market by Europeans was given at the sessions of the International Chamber of Commerce just closed. Representatives of European manufacturers and exporters were unanimous in expressing the opinion that their troubles would be most quickly solved by reducing our tariffs and giving them freer access to the United States, with its great buying power. Was there any concerted demand that Germany, France, Italy and a dozen other nations of Europe sacrifice national advantage to world benefit?

The counsel often given and today insistently repeated by the best business authorities, urging American industry to cultivate more intensely the home market, is advice that can well be heeded. There is scarcely a product that can not find a greater sale in this country through intelligent development of local demands. The money spent in doing business abroad, counting transportation, tariffs, methods of catering to differing tastes and nationalities, &c., would bring far greater results if applied to the expansion of business in this country.

Americans as a whole have more money to spend than any other nationality. The people are everyday customers for all kinds of commodities, not only necessities, but articles that are luxuries in other lands. Owing to different modes of life and lower incomes, only a fraction of the peoples in other countries can be considered as potential buyers for the products which Americans have for sale. This is true of all European countries, and the handicap applies to a far greater extent in Latin America and the Orient.

Central and South American trade is important to this country, but not more than 10 per cent of the population in all that area can be considered as customers for American products. The annual value of all the exports from the United States to Latin America, including Mexico, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and all of Central and South America, equals only about 1 per cent of American spendings. Our buying public is right here at home, speaking English, easily reached, accustomed to American goods, eager for novelties, and ready to be more thoroughly canvassed by business organizations.

The American market is one that any manufacturer outside the United States would prefer to all the rest of the world combined. The American producer, then, should not go abroad seeking costlier outlets until he is sure he has exhausted the vast consuming power of the United States, which is freely his for the taking.

FORCED LABOR BARRIERS.

Regulations which are intended to exclude from the American market the products of forced or indentured labor in foreign countries are being studied by the Treasury Department. This provision of the tariff act does not become effective until next January, but the problem is so complicated and controversial that it may require all of the intervening eight months to work out satisfactory regulations.

Section 307 of the tariff act is in itself quite simple. It forbids the importation of all goods, wares, articles and merchandise mined, produced or manufactured wholly or in part in any foreign country by convict labor or forced or indentured labor under penal sanctions. The Treasury is given a free hand in setting up regulations to enforce this prohibition, with one exception. Its provisions are applicable only to goods which are produced "in such quantities in the United States as to meet the consumptive demands of the United States." But this is such a broad exception that the entire section may fail in its purpose to protect American enterprise and labor against the products of foreign slavery systems.

It should not be difficult for the Treasury to determine what constitutes forced or indentured labor. Congress has defined forced labor to mean "all work of service which is exacted from any person under the menace of any penalty for its nonperformance and for which the worker does not offer himself voluntarily." This definition is aimed directly at Soviet Russia. Had it not been for the menace of slave-labor in Russia this section of the tariff act would not have been passed.

There seems to be no doubt that this language puts a ban upon all the products of communism. Soviet officials admit that labor is mobilized into industrial armies, and that deserters from the ranks are punished. William H. Grady, American engineer who recently returned from a job in Russia, says that some peasants work voluntarily, just as some soldiers volunteer for military service. "But the great mass are conscripts," he says. "The whole country is under the pressure of a combined religious and war psychology that is almost incomprehensible to the western world."

This section of the tariff act does not, however, apply exclusively to Soviet Russia. Indentured labor in the tropical countries, notably that engaged in the production of Sumatra tobacco wrapper, will probably be excluded from competition with American labor.

Although customs officials have never before been called upon to erect restrictions against forced-labor goods, that provision of the law should not be difficult of application because of its clarity. The joker in the law is that clause which would admit slave-made commodities if the United States does not produce those commodities in sufficient quantity to meet its own demands. Apparently this leaves an open door for competition between many American producers and foreign employers of forced labor. There are some goods which are manufactured in sufficient quantities to supply the national demand that may be protected against lower-priced foreign articles. But will the thousands of producers who supply the domestic market only in part be forced to meet the unfair competition of slave labor indefinitely?

It remains to be seen how the Treasury will interpret this section. If the interpretation is not favorable to domestic industry there will certainly be a clamor for strengthening of the statute. But the Treasury has been given a wide latitude, and it may be expected to carry out the purpose of Congress—which was to save American enterprise from unfair competition—to the fullest extent which the language of the statute permits. In case of doubt, American workingmen are entitled to first consideration. Congress has given the Treasury a confused and insecure foundation to work upon. Nevertheless, the law can doubtless be applied so as to throw up the first effective bulwark against the Soviet dumping campaign.

CAMPAIGN MONEY.

Senator Nye's campaign fund investigating committee has heard both sides of the argument for limiting campaign expenditures. Prof. Charles A. Beard was strong for reducing the cost of getting elected. Three or four cents per voter is, in his opinion, enough for any congressional aspirant to spend. He presented to the committee a full set of legal shackles to keep the influence of money in campaigns down to a minimum.

Prof. Charles E. Merriam, of the University of Chicago, talked with less enthusiasm, but with a larger measure of common sense. He turned the discussion away from pedantic theory to workable plans. Why should the amount of money spent on a campaign be limited, if the expenditures are proper and a full accounting of receipts and expenditures is made public? Prof. Merriam drew a line between legitimate uses of money and expenditures which tend toward corruption. Nothing can be accomplished by trying to prevent candidates from campaigning in a fair and honorable manner. On the other hand, why should not the expenditure of money for illegitimate campaigning be prohibited entirely? The real need is for strict limitation as to the kind of expenditures and not the total spent.

Limitation of total expenditures is not practical even though it should be found desirable. The nearest approach to an equitable method of fixing limitations that has been made is to allow a certain amount per voter. But the costs of carrying on campaigns are radically different in various parts of the country. At 4 cents per active voter a candidate in the large State of Nevada would be allowed to spend about $1,200. On the same basis a candidate in Massachusetts, a small State, could spend about $65,000.

The attempt to put all candidates on an equal footing is futile. Some have newspapers to support them, others industrial organizations, and still others are given the backing of organized lobbies. But the greatest difficulty in trying to limit expenditures is the impossibility of allocating funds spent in support of a whole ticket to the individuals running on that ticket. Many thousands of dollars are contributed to each party to promote its principles and interests, regardless of the number of candidates on the ticket. Who can say what portion goes to support the senatorial candidate and what to the State ticket? So long as this type of expenditure remains unlimited Congress can exercise no effective check upon the funds spent in behalf of its members. Senator Nye's quest of a financial measuring rod which can be applied to every candidate who aspires to congressional honors begins to look futile.

Carlyle and Schopenhauer, the world's great pessimists, might have been breezy fellows, says Prof. Donald A. Laird, if they had eaten an occasional cream puff. Why doesn't the professor try his dietetics on Senator Hull?

Girl Scouts hissed the cockfighting scene in the "Festival of Nations." Some one ought to bring the Fess-Shouse scrap to the attention of these young ladies.

Amos Woodcock is out after young and intelligent dry agents. Why doesn't he try college boys? They know where to find the liquor.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 9.—Foreigners are anxious to sell us merchandise. Whatever some of our own people may think and say, others are all agreed in considering our markets as the most valuable place to sell in the world. Foreign merchants are not attracted with the prospect of trade in some other country. They leave that attraction to us and are solicitous in proposing that we enter some other markets with our goods, which they say we can accomplish by giving up our own markets to their foreign goods.

We admit other countries can not long buy of us unless they sell to us or to others, but merchandise is not the only medium of trade. We buy many foreign bonds. We buy five or six hundred million dollars' worth of tourists' travel service in Europe each year.

We always consider that our own people ought to have the first chance in our own markets. We believe that we can promote desirable foreign trade only by keeping ourselves able to buy imports. The suggestion that our tariff be generally lowered, our wages, our foreign debts and living standards be reduced and only our domestic taxes be increased has not appealed to us as a sound method of increasing foreign trade.

SHAKESPEARE'S BIRTHDAY

Stratford-on-Avon Correspondence (April 23) of the London Times.

The Shakespeare birthday celebrations were held today at Stratford-on-Avon. Early in the morning a wide sky, such as Constable delighted to paint, blue, black, and white, had spread itself over the Warwickshire fields, but, as midday drew on, the blue, black and white merged themselves into an indeterminate grey, and the Stratford crowd reminded itself that rain, Shakespeare's birthday, and St. George's Day were accustomed to arrive simultaneously.

Stratford, like Oxford, deceives to flatter, and for some minutes the stranger may imagine he has arrived, not at the birthplace of Shakespeare, but at a town, however charming and picturesque, which has inconveniently chosen Thursday as its early closing day. Not until the actual town square is reached may he realize that Shakespeare's birthday is to be properly commemorated in Stratford and that, as the hour strikes 12, a fanfare of trumpets will be heard, the flags of the nations be broken, and homage, speaking in 100 tongues, will be paid to the man whom civilization as a whole has chosen to regard as its greatest poet.

In spite of the influx of the many distinguished guests, among whom were the representatives of over 20 dominions and foreign states, there clung to all the ceremonies the attractive tang of the local and the particular. It is this treatment of Shakespeare's birthday as a kind of local holiday, which gives April 23 in Stratford its peculiar loveliness. It would be easy to hire a highly-paid band, to work up an elaborate system of advertising, and so to relegate the citizens of Stratford to the position of casual hangers-on, but up to now they have rightly been encouraged to feel that Stratford owns something more than Shakespeare's birthplace and tomb—that they do, in fact, share in that tradition of English country life which Shakespeare, while he was writing the names of foreign towns at the head of his scenes, loved and understood so well.

At 12 o'clock today the trumpets rang out and a flurry of rain coincided with the breaking of the flags. There was little ceremony and, if the beadle, resplendent in scarlet, is omitted, little color. A procession of civic dignitaries and distinguished guests filed down to the cottage where Shakespeare was born, and, afterward, falling in behind the town band—a band which would surely have delighted Shakespeare, since various members of it occasionally stopped playing their instruments in order to greet acquaintances on the kerb—proceeded to his tomb, which a long procession of the faithful also honored with their spring offering of daffodils.

Better to Have Good Watch Dogs Than to Make Artificial Claws for the Sheep.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SLOWLY but surely in America the conviction grows that the sound and able man is his unfit brother's keeper.

The estimated percentage of unfit—the weak-minded and stupid—is almost exactly equal to the percentage of superior and brilliant men.

Between these two classes and constituting a considerable majority are the normal, average people possessed of sound sense who can care for themselves if given a fighting chance.

The stupid ones can not care for themselves. They are by nature destined to be the easy prey of sharpers and the perennial victims of misfortune.

No economic or political system can make them other than leaners. Unless altruism in some manner provides for them the comforts and advantages they can not win in open competition they are doomed to live in wretchedness.

This, then, is the destiny and the high calling of the superior.

Brilliant men—the ones who win easily—are no longer content merely to make money.

The pleasure of a game is in the opposition it affords.

The average man enjoys making money because it is difficult. When he has enough and to spare he still enjoys making it because the overcoming of difficulties contributes to his self-respect.

The brilliant man, and the man whose power of wealth makes further gain too easy, are not content to be mere money-makers. The game is too simple.

Playing a game with a child is commendable if the purpose of it is to amuse the child, but playing to win from the child is childish.

Superior men are learning that the making of money for the sake of money is childish also. More and more they are learning to regard themselves as stewards of civilization.

It is a man-size calling.

Cynics scoff at such altruism, but cynics are small men without capacity for unselfishness. Their attitude is that of the primitive and the child. They haven't yet developed the compassion that great men feel for the small.

The superior man becomes his brother's keeper because it is the only occupation that measures up to his abilities. His surplus of talent becomes the property of mankind. He collaborates with Providence in developing a race.

And this scheme of things, because it conforms to nature, will do more ultimate good than any arbitrary uplifting of the down-trodden by means of revolution and confiscation.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Congress, Borah and the Deficit.

Minneapolis Journal.

The Treasury deficit of somewhere between $800,000,000 and $1,000,000,000, which now looms on the fiscal horizon, is bound to be variously viewed, depending largely on the political predilections of the viewer.

Senator Borah, as might be expected, attributes the Government's overrun of expenditures to the growth of "bureaucracy," to the creation of new commissions by the executive, to the steadily growing burden of paying salaries to new and old officeholders.

Senator Borah, as might be equally expected, ignores the part Congress has played in creating new obligations in the face of the sturdy opposition of the President.

Chairman Will R. Wood, of the House appropriations committee, is prompt to point out some of these, and also Senator Borah's connection therewith.

The Idaho senator, for example, supported the veterans' bonus loan measure, which nicked the Treasury for $1,000,000,000. The President vetoed this measure in vain, and the administration has had to find the money to pay the bill against its own sound financial judgment.

According to the Holton Recorder "there is no possible oracle to tell Charley Curtis whether to run for Vice President or senator."

It needs no oracle to say that the former majority leader of the Senate liked that job, and probably still thinks it a better one than presiding officer. He has confessed that he liked to be in a position where all the "boys," and on both sides of the chamber, consulted him regularly, and usually were told where to head in. There never was a more popular floor leader. He can still offer advice, but the situation is not the same. On the other hand, he is a publicity figure of great magnitude in Washington and the Nation, and correspondingly a social figure. These things are attractive and alluring, if not so much so to Curtis as to most public men. They are makeweights in the balance.

More important is the general political situation. The Vice President is, above all, a loyal Republican.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Better Enforcement Personnel May Change Public Attitude Toward Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Seeking to improve its personnel, the Prohibition Bureau has asked the Civil Service Commission to reduce the maximum age limit of enforcement agents from 50 to 35 years and, to "raise the standards of intelligence," as stated in an Associated Press dispatch. I would like to express my gratification at this encouraging commonsense action by the prohibition authorities.

Up to three years ago, or less, the agents of the Prohibition Bureau did not seem to rank very high in fitness for the special work required of them. There were exceptions, of course, but as a whole their activities were such as in the minds of many to give the prohibition heads a bad reputation.

During the short time since the Civil Service Commission was authorized to pass on the qualifications of those seeking appointment as prohibition agents there has been some improvement in the manner and outcome of enforcement. The indication that this improvement is to continue will be most welcome to friends of good order and temperance reform, and is likely to change the attitude of many law-abiding citizens who have unfortunately been led to doubt whether a temperance law is workable.

Undoubtedly the success or failure of a new departure in jurisprudence such as the prohibition law must depend mainly on whether the enforcement field force is good or bad. And the appointment of young men of character, as contemplated, will, in my estimation, be decidedly advantageous. They will take a keener interest in their work and are less likely to approach it perfunctorily than, as a rule, men who have passed middle life.

It is unquestionably all important "to raise the standards of intelligence," and the Prohibition Bureau seems in a fair way to accomplish this. The bureau asserts that increasingly successful efforts have been made to "get away from the deputy sheriff type" of appointees. A number of college men, we are told, already have been admitted to the service and more are expected among the 500 additional agents authorized for service July 1.

In other words, unless we are to be sadly disappointed, boobs and mercenaries are to have no place in the work of prohibition enforcement. In the coure of time they must be weeded out. With a vigorous corps of self-respecting, resourceful young Americans constantly on the job, misguided apologists for wet lawbreakers may yet be made to understand that the eighteenth amendment is not a mockery.

TEMPERANCE.

A Father of Sons Demands Publication of Names of Senators and Representatives Who Patronized Bootlegger.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If people know the fullest publicity was possible on whatever they do, every man would be mighty careful of his deportment. If the members of the House and Senate had expected that their names might be published, the Green Hat bootlegger who furnished them with the liquor could have done no business on Capital Hill. The man who hires another to break a law is as guilty as the man who does the deed. Not long ago a man was electrocuted in Sing Sing for hiring a gunman to commit murder.

Publish the names of those men, by all means! It never improves the morals of a town to shield a hypocrite. Why should one of the partners in a crime be punished while the other is protected? The buyer is particeps criminis and deserves the execration accorded to his fellow. The trouble lies in the fact that locking up Cassidy does not stop buying from some other lawbreaker. Stop the buying and the selling will disappear.

It is quite amazing that one of "the cloth" who signs himself Rev. J. K. L. should take the position that publicity "might ruin them at home," and so seeks to protect the buyer, but lock up the seller! It is to be hoped that he will secure a new moral rangefinder and also be impartial in punishing offenders, regardless of who they are.

If those men who like to be regarded as decent citizens would cease the nefarious patronage of bootleggers and cast the weight of their position toward sustaining the law and the "support of the Constitution," to which they take oath, before they can be seated in either House or Senate, the law could be more easily enforced and the moral sentiment of the Nation would be improved. The present writer's first-born went down—and out—because of liquor, which is reason enough for this criticism of the reverend gentleman by Sky Pilot Who Fears That Names of Green Hat Patrons May Be Divulged Is Asked a Question.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the letter from the Rev. J. K. L. in The Post of May 7, isn't it just too bad about the "sky pilot" whose heart is bleeding for the patrons of the bootlegger in the Green Hat who may be done such a great injustice by the publication of their names! Does some "little bird" tell him that he might see the names of some of his deacons in his list? He states that it is not a crime to buy liquor. If it is all right to buy liquor and a perfectly respectable transaction, why this distress at the threatened publication of the names of the buyers? Perish the thought that the name of the "divine" himself might appear on such a list!

FRENCH ROYALISTS BOO BRIAND'S NAME

Joan of Arc Fete Is Excuse for Demonstration as Election Nears.

Paris, May 10 (A.P.).—Royalists today seized upon the national Joan of Arc fete day as an occasion to stage a street demonstration against Foreign Minister Aristide Briand. They hissed and booed whenever his name was mentioned.

Police dispersed groups of students at Palais Royal Square, where they had gathered ostensibly to join the customary parade in honor of the Catholic St. Joan.

Premiere Pierre Laval and Minister of War Andre Maginot represented the government at the fete ceremonies in Rivoli Square, at the foot of Joan's statue. Delegations of Catholic societies took part in the services.

Similar exercises were held throughout the country today.

Candidacy Debated.

The question of whether Briand would continue as minister of foreign affairs or seek election as President of France was being debated by the French nation today.

Tomorrow the veteran French statesman and internationalist will be asked to state his position in regard to the presidential election which is to be held Wednesday. It is believed he can not well dodge the query.

The country seems to be entirely willing to leave the choice to him. This was indicated by his smashing victory in the Chamber of Deputies Saturday, and it was believed he might decide to remain at the Quai D'Orsay as foreign minister and continue his efforts to promote a Pan-European union.

Painleve Is In Race.

The friends of Painleve, who ran second in the 1924 presidential election, today announced their intention to push their candidate as the chief opponent of Senator Paul Doumer. The hope still prevailed in certain breasts that Briand would not be a candidate. Among those who held this hope are Minister of Justice Leon and Poincare's candidate, Senator Albert Lebrun.

Le Journal Des Debats, organ of old conservatism, came out in opposition to Briand's candidacy tonight with a long editorial in which it asked why, if he is certain his peace policies are bearing good fruit, Briand should leave the ministry.

The paper also questioned Briand's ability to be impartial as president. It predicted he would be mixed in many parliamentary struggles.

Although Briand was holding the inside track as far as the Chamber of Deputies is concerned, the Senate groups have not yet taken indicative action, but they are expected to do so tomorrow or Tuesday.

Edith Mason Is Rewed To Polacco in Zurich

Milan, Italy, May 10 (A.P.).—Edith Mason, American singer, was remarried yesterday at Zurich, Switzerland, to Giorgio Polacco, former musical director of the Chicago Opera Company, according to word received here tonight.

They went to Switzerland for the ceremony because the Italian law does not recognize divore and under it they were still considered man and wife, although they were divored two years ago. Miss Mason in the meantime had married and been divored from Dr. Maurice A. Bernstein, of Chicago.

The congress, which closed today, also condemned vivisection, urged stricter control of hunting and slaughtering and went on record as favoring teaching kindness to animals to school children.

Wales Will Talk On South America

Prince to Address Groups of Business Men on Trade Hopes.

London, May 10 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales was ready tonight to deliver to British business men the first fruits of hope harvested in his trip to South America. Tomorrow night he will address 1,200 business men at Birmingham and a similar audience at Manchester Tuesday, explaining his belief in prospects for increased British trade in South America.

While South American trade prospects are thus being boosted, however, the Conservatives in the House of Commons will return tomorrow to their attack on the Labor government's Russian policy. Tuesday the house will discuss the controversial question of electoral reform and, Wednesday, the Indian problem, particularly the Hindu boycott against foreign goods.

Winston Churchill is expected to take the lead in the debate on the Indian affairs, unlimbering his oratorical guns against the government. On Thursday the house will discuss the future of British air policies and the results of the inquiry into the R-101 air disaster.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennsky

STRAWBERRIES

THE ANCIENT SAXONS PREPARED THESE BERRIES BY PIERCING THEM WITH STRAWS AND SERVING THEM IN THAT MANNER. FROM THAT PRACTICE OUR ANCESTORS GAVE THEM THE NAME "STRAWBERRIES."

"GID-AP!"

THE ARABS USED THE CAMEL AS A BEAST OF BURDEN AND THAT ANIMAL ALWAYS LAY DOWN FOR LOADING. WHEN READY TO GO, THE MASTER SAID "GET UP" AND THE CAMEL WOULD RISE AND WALK OFF. IT SEEMED NATURAL TO START HORSES BY THE ENGLISH PHRASE AND SO THE ARABS GOT US INTO THE HABIT OF USING THE EXPRESSION.

GUNS AND GUNPOWDER

THE MODERN USE OF GUNPOWDER IN WAR DATES FROM THE BATTLE OF CRECY, WHEN MEN USED POWDER, NOT TO KILL, BUT TO SCARE ENEMY HORSES. THEY WERE ASTONISHED AT THE EFFECTIVENESS OF GUNS IN KILLING PEOPLE, AND FROM THAT TIME GUNS AND GUNPOWDER BECAME A FACTOR IN WARFARE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

IMPROVING JAKE.

WE have a report on the Villa Grove bunch of jake paralysis cases. It is just about one year since these parties were poisoned by drinking Jamaica ginger as a beverage. They are improving satisfactorily. The wasted places are filling in and muscles are increasing in volume. In some instances the tissues in the space between the thumb and the next finger had wasted until it appeared to be two layers of skin with nothing between.

These shrunken area are now tolerably well filled in. The men are able to walk fairly well. Some get about without much indication that they have been paralyzed, that is, so long as they walk slowly and on smooth, level surfaces. Some are regaining ability to flex the ankle and lift the toes fairly well.

As a rule, the subject is able to recognize the return of nerve and muscle. He feels a tingling in his legs and some tendency to contracting and cramping. This generally leads him to concentrate his attention on the tingling areas and practice moving the wasted muscles and the useless joints. As a result the rate of improvement increases. These people, after casting about for help in several directions, finally settled down to a treatment consisting of a diet rich in vitamin B complex; of rest, when rest was indicated; and of exercise, when the time came for that.

It is Dr. Maurer's opinion that the diet may have done some good, but that most of the improvement has been the result of the natural reparative powers of the body. New nerves have grown out to replace the old. They pushed their way into the area of need and hooked up with the work stations, there came sensations of tingling and of some muscle on-edge-ness. Faith and hope and exercise did the rest.

The experience of these two groups—that of Villa Grove and that of Corinth—indicates that most cases of jake poisoning will eventually recover from their paralysis, at least far enough to get around without crutch or cane. Those who are determined and persistent may eventually build up muscles and nerves that will be even stronger than those the jake put out of commission.

Meanwhile the Government continues to study the chemicals in this batch of so-called Jamaica ginger which caused all this trouble. The use of this chemical in ginger does not appear to have extended beyond this batch of goods. The reports from California indicate some other cause for the outbreak there.

DIET FOR MOTHER.

Anxious Expectant Mother writes:

1. What muts an expectant mother eat to form teeth and bones for the coming baby?

2. Will you tell me how to count for the coming of my baby?

REPLY.

1. To supply the necessary lime and phosphorus she should irink milk and eat cereals. For the necessary vitamins she should eat fruit and vegetables for C; wheat germs, whole grains and egg for B complex, and fish fat for D.

2. Count back nine months and add seven days. This gives the day and month. Setting the year is easy. The actual time elapsed is 273 days. The time used in calculation is 280 from the day used as a basis of calculation.

Chute Jumps Pay Tuition.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 10 (U.P.).—Parachute jumping on Sundays and holidays to thrill crowds has earned enough money for Hugh Thomasson, 16, to pay his way through school. He says he has nearly saved enough for a course at the University of Southern California. He is said to be the youngest professional parachute jumper in the country.

DIAL FLASHES

A RADIO set designed to cover a wave length range from 18 to 650 meters, called the Universal Super-Wasp, is new on the market. While intended primarily for use on the short wave, for the direct reception of foreign stations, the new instrument is also a good broadcast receiver, and in addition takes in the calling waves used for ship-to-shore telegraphic traffic.

The plug-in coils that characterize almost every short wave receiver have been dispensed with by means of a novel switching arrangement. The shifting from one wave band to another is accomplished in seven steps by turning a knob on the front panel. There are seven combinations, producing the following wave-length ranges: From 15 to 28 meters, 22 to 41, 40 to 75, 70 to 147, 146 to 270, 240 to 500 and 470 to 850. Any one of these ranges may be selected instantly.

The receiver makes possible loud speaker results under favorable conditions from voice stations in Great Britain, Holland, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Morocco, British East Africa, French Indo-China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Central and South America and Canada.

ATTEMPTS to pick up Station HSIPJ, Bangkok, Siam, which is about 8,000 miles from New York, will be made from time to time during the convalescence of King Prachipok. The trials will be made by John D. Reid.

How Great Britain's Labor party stands on the problem, "The Effects of Tariffs on Employment," will be told by William Graham, M. P., also president of the British board of trade, today (WRC, 3:20 p. m.).

A "UKULELE SYMPHONY" will have its premiere during the Symphonic Rhythm Makers program tonight. Titled "Indigo Moon," it is the work of Don Becker, WLW production man and ukulele virtuoso, and Charles H. Cuppett, Columbus, O. business man and composer.

The melody is for ukulele and symphony orchestra and is one of the first compositions to bring the famous Hawaiin instrument into the symphonic family. Becker will be the ukulele soloist during rendition of this selection.

It is believed to be the first selection ever composed for exclusive radio presentation. The Rhythm Makers program will be heard over WEAF, beginning at 10 p. m. WRC will take only the last 15 minutes.

A series of organ recitals by Archer Gibson, to be known as "Dream Pictures" will be inaugurated over WJZ's network tomorrow night, 10:30 o'clock.

GUY LOMBARDO, director of the justly popular Royal Canadians, proved as genial a guest of honor as Harry Butcher did a host at the Columbia party at the Wardman Park Saturday night.

Judge Eugene O. Sykes, vice chairman of the Radio Commission, incidentally was the life of the gathering, which included radio newshawks, radio lawyers, and other friends of the CBS.

Four selections have been especially arranged for Underwood & Underwood's singing violins tonight (WRC, 9:30 p. m.)—Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois," "Jalousie," "Sixty Seconds Every Minute" and "I Found You."

The Kentucky Derby will be the subject of Irvin S. Cobb, the famous Kentuckian, on Wednesday night (WRC, 9:30 p. m.).

A harp-violin duet will be the feature of the DanDee Bakers program tonight (WRC, 8:30 p. m.).

The Chicago jubilee luncheon will be broadcast by Columbia on Wednesday (WMAL, 1 p. m.).

THE touch of pathos injected in their radio skit by the severe illness of Ruby Taylor was inspired by the Charlie Chaplin film, "City Lights." Amos and Andy revealed during a conversation in New York the other day. They believed it would be a good thing for their act.

"It was a great piece of radio acting that revealed how the emotional appeal can be stirred up in an unseen audience," writes a New York critic. "It showed the vast possibilities in radio drama and proved that Amos Jones and Andrew Brown are real actors."

Demand for an immediate injunction to stop the proposed merger of the RCA-Victor and Columbia Graphophone companies, as a violation of the Sherman antitrust law, has been made to Attorney General Mitchell by the Independent radio interests, led by Oswald F. Schuette. This demand is the last in a series of such attacks on the so-called "radio trust."

Accompanied by a symphony orchestra under the baton of Wilfred Pelletier, Lucrezia Bori will sing six selections tonight (WMAL, 7:30 p. m.). Among them are "Gavotte," from Massenet's "Manon," "LaViolettera," and "Kiss in the Dark."

Opera will be broadcast from the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London, on Wednesday afternoon, when the first four scenes from the second act of "The Magic Flute" will be heard (WMAL, 4:30 p. m.).

THE son of a minister, Dwight Latham, studied to be a tree surgeon, but instead rose to radio popularity as "Pep" of the Jesters.

Col. Robert E. Longstreet, son of the famous confederate general, and another speaker will address Camp No. 305, Sons of Confederate Veterans, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Confederate Memorial Home, 1322 Vermont avenue northwest.

Arthur Clarendon Smith, division commander of the organization in the District and Maryland, announced that plans will be continued in an attempt to bring the Confederate Veterans' reunion here next year.

Jean Interprets the Mode

Schiaparelli's daytime suit is very interesting, of gray beige tweed with skirt of reverse tweed and tuck-in yellow blouse.

Jane Regny shows an attractive street frock of green and brown crepe de chine with wide pleated skirt at right.

New York, May 10.

REALLY, my dear, I don't want ever to reach a time when my thought don't run naturally to bright, fresh, crisp blouses in the spring. Some people are that way about hats, but when your Dah-ray feels sort of spring-feverish, as she does now and again, a new blouse does wonders for her morale. And this season, with suits of every kind so completely in the style picture, blouses are more important and more delightful and more alluring than ever.

Let's settle (to our satisfaction anyway!) this burning question as to whether you tuck 'em in, or tie 'em around or just wear them long. And the answer is—all three! You can continue to tuck your blouses in, if you like them that way, but the feeling now is, that tucking them in your skirt is definitely a morningish business. The newer and rather more dressy style in blouses is having them end in a sash and wearing the sash tied tightly about your middle. Or just as smart are the kind that are as long as your jacket (finger-tip or hip-bone length), and which are belted at the waist, in a contrasting belt. The long tunic blouse, of course, only for your long-coated suit, is dressiest of all and it, too, is either belted or curves in naturally at the waistline. You can see that whatever length of blouse you wear, your waistline is marked in some way. All blouses go except the shapeless ones! Jenny likes the allover beaded—in tiny, tiny beads, and imitating a princess effect—bolero blouses which end just a tiny bit above your waistline. These are charming and oh, very jeune.

Blouse sleeves come in almost as many lengths as the blouses themselves. Naturally the length you decides on depends on the length of your jacket sleeve. Mirande likes very full, almost leg-o-mutton sleeves for some of her blouses, best with sleeveless jackets.

Eyelet embroidery (all-over), lace, linen, tucked net, crepe de chine, taffeta, striped shirting, checks and plaids or almost anything else you like, are all used!

O-o-oh, Lovely Lady, don't wrinkle your pretty brow so hopelessly over that maddening spring coat problem! Just sit down and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right away to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which tells you just how to make the smartest coat—and out of very little material. And for good measure, your own Dah-ray has told you how to make her favorite scarf and a tricky little beret to complete the ensemble.

• • • •

These glorious days just demand suits and frocks suitable for street wear, and all the couturiers are doing their part to fill this need. I am sketching two splendid examples of this street costume idea today. Schiaparelli uses that new neutral-toned grayish-beige flecked wool tweed for this suit. The cardigan jacket is masculinely simply—one of the season cleverest ways to enhance femininity. The skirt is made of the wrong side of the tweed, very simply, but it fastens with gold clasps—sort of eyelet-and-hook arrangement. And the blouse, of the gayest yellow crepe, is tuck-in, of course.

Jane Regny, on the other hand, does interesting things with the shortest possible bolero blouse and wide-pleated skirt. In the frock I show today she uses green and brown crape de chine—the wide belt and bodice yoke with its detachable bow being brown.

And you'll wan't to read Dare's weekly fashion letter every Sunday in the big Sunday Washington Post.

Au revoir!

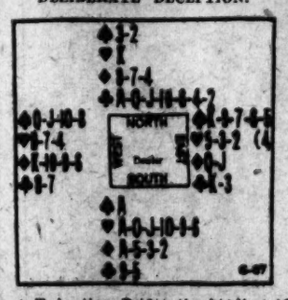
WORK ON BRIDGE

DELIBERATE DECEPTION.



AT Auction Bridge the bidding of the above hand probably would be: South one Heart, West pass, North two Clubs, East pass and South two Hearts.

The hand was played at Contract; South bid two Hearts—his seven trick hand was well over the minimum requirement. West passed, and North called three Clubs. South could not support the Clubs and with his hand it seemed clear that the trump must be Hearts, even if North had less than normal support; the announcement of North's strength in Clubs solidified the hand. South's bid of four Hearts closed the contracting.

West led the Queen of Spades, which was won by South's Ace. Declarer then led the trump Ace, dropping dummy's King; next two more rounds of trumps and then the Nine of Clubs. West played the Seven, North the Deuce and East the Trey. East's play was risky; if West had originally held one Club or three it would be expensive; if South and West each had one Club left it might be the only way to save game. East hoped that South would finesse again, and if he did the second finesse would leave dummy's remaining Club without a re-entry.

It happened as Doctor East ordered: A second Club finesse was taken, East won with the King, and three Diamond tricks were lost by Declarer, setting the contract one trick.

Do you see how South should have played this hand?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South probably could have forestalled East's hold-up with a bit of deception of his own. After drawing trumps, he should have led the Nine of Clubs from his hand, and deliberately overtake it with dummy's Ten. This play would make it appear to East that South held a singleton Club and needed just one discard for game. East appearently could kill the Club by playing the King, while a holdup would drop the King under dummy's Ace, giving Declarer six discards and a grand slam. East, therefore, would play his King. Three discards on dummy's Clubs would give Declarer a small slam. If the Ten wins the first round of Clubs, presumably the King can be marked with West, and South can be put in by trumping a Spade to repeat the finesse.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THIS last week I have received several letters from readers asking me to write an article on hardy garden lilies. Most of these letters contained some reference to the regal lily.

A garden is never complete without a planting of hardy lilies. These do well by themselves or in a perennial border, but wherever you plant them they must have shade from surrounding plants. Their tops may be in the sun, but the roots must be in shade.

There is a difference of opinion as to the depth to plant these bulbs, so I am going to quote the directions given by one of the great authorities on the raising of lilies. "All hardy lilies should be planted from 6 to 8 inches deep, the Japan varieties even twelve inches deep, the bulbs should be completely enveloped in sand, no manure should come in contact with the bulbs, but may be placed 4 to 6 inches underneath. All loose-petaled bulbs should be planted on their side instead of upright. Cover with leaves or litter during winter."

These directions are clear and definite and if carefully followed should lead to success. Of course you know that you must keep the weeds from encroaching on their territory. Lilies are a hungry tribe and refuse to share their food.

Among the Japanese hardy lilies are the auratum (gold-banded lily), speciosum magnificum, speciosum album, speciosum melpomene, Henryi and tigrinum splendens (tiger lily).

The regal lily (Lilium myriophyllum) is one of the finest lilies of recent introduction. It has sturdy stems, 3 to 5 feet in height. It produces an abundance of large and beautiful flowers, the centers of which are flushed with jubilant yellow which shades off to creamy white at the outer edges of the petals. The outside of the trumpets are streaked with light brown, shading to a deep pearly tint.

You can set out regal lilies in the fall or in the spring. Plant them 8 to 9 inches deep. Bulbs planted in the spring or at this time will commence to flower in July

If you do not know the regal lily, ask your dealer to tell you about it or show you a picture of the flower.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

HELPING THE BOY FRIEND.

DEAR Frances MacDonald: I have never written to you, although I read your column every day and enjoy it, as you have helped me in many of my problems; but after reading the letter from "The Girl Lou" I couldn't resist writing, as her letter certainly did hand me a laugh. She asks what sum she should demand be spent on her by the man she is supposed to love! Does she know what love is?

What would she do if her friend were out of work, like so many young men today that can't even take a girl to a movie, let alone to a real show? Would she stick if trouble or want ever came?

I, too, am engaged to a fellow that I think the world of, and he is out of work and also in financial trouble. Am I supposed to go around moping and carrying on as Lou? What's the use. I'd rather try to help him get on his feet and at the same time console his mother and father, and when everything is settled and he is working again, I intend to marry him and help him to forget his troubles and worries.

Evidently Lou's friend is trying to save his money to give her a home and furnish it as he thinks it should be. Does she think that after she is married that friend husband will be wanting to run hither and yon every evening? Lou, be glad that your friend is willing to stay home with you one evening a week instead of wanting to go on a "gin party" or something similar. There are many girls who wish "the boy friend" would rather spend an evening at home instead of gallivanting around.

I don't expect this to be published, but I just had to get it out of my system, so, Miss McDonald, I am taking it out on you and do hope that you won't mind. LADDIE.

Well, why should it not be published? If Lou wants real help in dealing with her lover and his purse surely the other side of the story should help her a bit. After all, it might just be that something other than stinginess might make a fellow careful of his expenditures. A man just might be really thinking of the future, although that is something almost unknown today. The present moment is as far as the average man or girl ever thinks in this enlightened age of ours.

Personally we believe a girl truly in love would never harbor the thoughts that Lou voices! She does not love the boy and should not marry him. Any man can buy a theater ticket, but not every man can mean peace and heart's content.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:10 p. m., from 3:40 p. m. to 5:45 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6:10 p. m. to 7:40 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 11 denote untoward events, caused by treacherous and chaotic influences. Things that promise well and propositions that look attractive will prove abortive. Travel will be unproductive. Routine and established custom only should be followed.

Children born on this May 11 will be imaginative, rather than practical. Unless schooled in adversity, they will be dreamers, not doers. Their natures will be emotional and their dispositions affectionate. The signs indicate that they may develop into writers or artists.

Born on May 11, you lose control too quickly of your feelings to ever become a power. If you wish to attain success, you must learn to dominate your inclination to "blow-up" on the slightest pretext. You are also supersensitive and apply a personal meaning to the most innocent remarks. People are not always thinking and talking of you when they are talking to you.

Your likes and dislikes are very pronounced and often lead you astray. You love with intensity, but without constancy. You hate with bitterness, but without reason. Your complexes are exaggerated. When in an optimistic mood, you live in the clouds, but when pessimistic, you sink to the depths. What you need to find is a mental halfway house, where you can secure poise and establish equilibrium.

Your judgment is quick and impulsive; you lack deliberation. You rush at things and when it is too late have reason to regret your hastiness. There should be a compromise between procrastination and impetuosity. "Do it now" is a good motto only if it is worth doing. In your family life there will not be found that evenness of temperament which brings contentment in its train. There will be constant upheavals and unexpected changes.

Successful people born May 11:

1—John Lowell, established Lowell Institute, Boston.

2—Matthew Vassar, benefactor of Vassar College.

3—George W. Scranton, founder of Scranton, Pa.

4—Ottmar Mergenthaler, inventor linotype type-setting machine.

5—Irving Berlin, song composer.

One secret of Good Health and a Clear Skin lies in

NEW STRENGTH in the Blood

"Now, every blemish is gone—"

YOU will be surprised how much better you will feel . . . how much more attractive you will be to your friends . . . after you have added New Strength to your blood—in fact, the whole world will seem rosy!

Rich, red blood plays a dominant role in maintaining health. It builds and sustains . . . removes impurities from the tissues. When you add New Strength to the blood and bring it back to normal, your whole body is invigorated and strengthened . . . your mental condition is improved . . . you are better able to resist infection and disease.

If your vitality is low and you feel weak, don't care to eat, have lost weight, your skin is sallow, pale or broken out with pimples or boils, let S.S.S. purify and enrich your blood.

S.S.S. is composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form. It has a successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood—this New Strength naturally makes for better health and happiness.

If constipated, try KLOK-LAX . . . it "acts on time."

S.S.S.

Purifies and Enriches the Blood makes you feel like yourself again

DON'T let your wife see this or you'll spoil a wonderful chance to surprise and please her. And to save yourself some money at the same time!

It's about her charm . . . her health and attractiveness . . . and her comradeship with you.

These things are vital to both of you . . . and to your permanent happiness. Yet how often, when you get home, things seem out of sorts. She's tired and looks it. Or maybe you were going out together and she's in no mood for it. And to make matters worse supper is late again.

Washday is one of the chief causes of all this. Rough, red hands, tired back and aching muscles ruin any woman's charm. Even if she doesn't wash the clothes herself she has to worry with a washwoman—an upset household—embarrassing clotheslines. No wonder so many wives begin to age before their husbands! No wonder their healthy vitality slips away so soon. How can any woman be bright and attractive . . . and thoughtful . . . after months of such weary work. She can't . . . and you both pay the price! But you think you're saving money. So your false economy becomes a habit.

A Word to Husbands

Break it! Tell her tonight to give Manhattan a two week's trial. Think how pleased she'll be. No more "washday hangover" for her. No more wasted beauty care . . . undone by work and worry. And no more of that embarrassing "married to the washwoman" feeling for you.

Take our word for it that you'll save money. The reason is easy to see. Here at Manhattan we launder everything in soft net bags—which keep out the wear that wears out clothes. We can't prove that the first week . . . unless you visit us and see. But these net bags actually save you money by saving your clothes. Pure Palm Oil Soap plays its part too . . . and floods of soft, filtered water.

Every Manhattan Service gets this same thorough care . . . even rough dry. And every bundle comes back to you in 3 short days, instead of 4 or more.

If you believe in good investments let your wife phone Manhattan. We'll explain the service that best fits your home . . . and your budget. But show your sound judgment tonight and end her washday worries forever! You'll never regret it. Our number is Decatur 1120—and we'll be waiting for that call.

ROYAL COUPLE FINDS NIAGARA OVERRATED

Officials Are Crestfallen as Princess Murmurs Her Disappointment.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 10 (A.P.).—Speaking for Prince Takamatsu and Princess Kikuko in an official interview this afternoon, Commander Yakeo Yamagata, master of ceremonies, expressed disappointment in Niagara's grandeur for their royal highnesses.

Leading figures in the Dominion and in this city were somewhat crestfallen yesterday when the 19-year-old princess murmured in flawless English as she gazed for the first time on the cataract: "Why, this is not what I expected; I thought it would be greater."

Commander Yamagata this afternoon said:

"There was a feeling in the royal party that the illumination of the falls which we saw last evening was somewhat gaudy. We are much impressed by the sublimity of this waterfall, but to light it in striking colors is like gilding the lily."

After a hearty American breakfast of ham and eggs, the prince and his bride accompanied by Commander Yamagata, Commander Kyosuke Midsuno, aids de camp; the Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, and Laurent B. Autry, Dominion counselor of external affairs, visited Table Rock and the Niagara Falls and Queenston Plants of the Ontario Hydroelectric Power Commission. A short drive along the Canadian side of the gorge and a spin around Goat Island on the United States side occupied the morning. The party took lunch at the General Brock Hotel and immediately after entrained for Detroit.

necessarily was the same. The Supreme Court, as your committee is doubtless aware, has held that this would be assumed, even if not textually set forth."

Senator Glass asked the committee to give attention to a suggestion that there "should be absolute prohibition, under heavy penalty, of political contributions of any person, concern, institution or corporation, or any agent thereof, to any Federal election campaign in any State other than that in which such person or agent resides or such institution is located or by which such concern or corporation is licensed or chartered to conduct its business."

"Had such a provision been incorporated in the Federal corrupt practices act," Senator Glass said, "the country would not now be shocked by the spectacle of a prominent prelate being publicly accused of embezzling campaign funds supplied by a wealthy resident of one State to be used to control elections in other States."

"It was my view," Senator Glass said, "that the jurisdiction of the Senate committee should be extended because it had been publicly charged by a responsible member of Congress that the existing corrupt practices act had been grossly violated by a designated person and that the compelling motive in its violation was to conceal the theft of large campaign contributions and their diversion to private uses. This charge, as it seemed to me and other senators, did not involve alone the reputation and character of the person accused, but also the very integrity of campaign contributions made to political parties for legitimate election purposes.

"In the absence of any convincing denial of this grave accusation and of any demand for an inquiry into the charge—indeed, in the face of legalistic objection and technical avoidance—it seemed to the United States Senate that its committee on campaign expenditures should ascertain the truth of this or any similar indictment, with a view to proposing legislation that might effectively avert or adequately penalize a repetition of such a scandalous breach of trust and such a fraud upon the security of election donations. This was and is the whole purpose of Senate resolution 403. * * *

"The country will owe your committee a debt which it would be difficult to estimate if it will searchingly pursue its inquiry and devise legislation that will effectively prevent the unfair use of campaign funds or their fraudulent diversion to purposes for which they are not intended. If crimes already committed may not be punished, we should at least seek to prevent their repetition with impunity.

"Both political parties talk a great deal about the 'rights of States.' Why not let each State render its own verdict at the polls in Federal elections, unmolested and unaffected by slush funds from other States, whether such funds be used 'legitimately' or are largely stolen and put to private uses?"

Senator Nye has already announced that the inquiry will continue, despite refusal of Bishop Cannon and Miss Ada Burroughs, secretary of the anti-Smith organization in Virginia, to testify before the committee. Representative Tinkham, Massachusetts, has complained to the committee that Bishop Cannon failed to account for $30,000 of $65,000 given the Virginia anti-Smith campaign by E. C. Jameson, of New York.

above the world market prices and foreign countries were dissatisfied with that condition.

"They know," he added, "that if our tariff protection were removed American prices would break to their own levels. The Democrats have shown every evidence of desiring to aid in bringing this about. On the other hand, there has been no agitation on the part of foreign nations nor the Democrats to reduce tariffs of foreign nations."

10,000-Ton German Ship to Sail on May 19

Berlin, May 10 (U.P.).—Germany's first 10,000-ton "pocket battleship," the Deutschland, will be launched May 19 and is expected to revive active discussion abroad of Germany's naval policy.

The battleship will be christened by President Paul von Hindenburg. Some foreign naval writers, notably French, have discussed the "miraculous" fighting power of the new type vessel, but official quarters here have scorned the suggestion that the "pocket fleet" will introduce new threats to the achievement of disarmament and world peace.

MOTHERS OF NATION HONORED IN VARIOUS SERVICES HERE

public has allowed professional welfare workers to exploit its sentiment for motherhood in a manner of which I never dreamed. I am more than amazed; I am dismayed. I deplore particularly that committees of prominent men and women have commercialized this day in the name of needy mothers."

As members of the American War Mothers formed the impressive aisle of honor before the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier yesterday, representatives of 42 organizations passed through the lane of laurel and white carnations to place a floral tribute on the tomb.

"I knew the soldier well," Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, widow of a British officer and a war-time nurse, told the group of War Mothers and their guests.

She described the scenes and soldiers she knew during the stirring war times, giving a picture of "that composite youth of our land."

The throng heard Maj. Gen. John L. DeWitt, quartermaster general of the United States Army, describe the provisions made by the Government for the care of mothers of soldiers on their pilgrimage to graves of their sons in France. He recalled that another group had sailed from New York only four days ago to make a pilgrimage.

"It is upon arriving at the cemeteries where one realizes, if he had not done so before, the reality of the pilgrimage," Gen. DeWitt declared. "It is a solemn and touching scene."

"Each mother, with her pride and adoration centered in the one she loved, in viewing the beauty and peacefulness of the ground where every human effort has been made to have them typify sentiment and reverence in the fullest measure, can but feel assured that all who lie therein are and always will be included in the Nation's tender and protecting care."

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, paid tribute to Mary Ball Washington as the "first American War Mother."

"It is to the mother of George Washington that this Nation owes its existence today as a land of liberty and of opportunity. Not only did Mary, the mother of Washington, bring into the world a son of rare heredity and character, but we know from research that from his infancy this boy was trained and taught in these high principles of truth, courage and honor which equipped him perfectly for the great task to which he was to come," Representative Bloom declared.

Representative Owen Speaks.

Greetings from the American War Mothers were presented by Mrs. Virgil McClure, national president of the organization.

A program of special music was arranged for the event, including a prelude by the United States Marine Band, and solos by Miss Frances B. Cole and Herman Fakler.

The invocation was said by Capt. Sidney Keys Evans, chief of Navy chaplains, and the benediction by Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of Army chaplains.

Taps was sounded over the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by Staff Sgt. Frank Wichey, Headquarters Troop, Third Cavalry, who sounded the call at the burial of the Unknown Soldier on November 11, 1921.

Trees Are Dedicated.

Following services at Arlington members of the American War Mothers dedicated four trees in Potomac Park in honor of the founder and past national presidents of the organization.

The four mothers honored at the ceremony are the especial pride of a nation because they labored to keep alive a love of union necessary to national greatness, Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S. A., retired, declared.

"Ever throughout the ages, the men of vision, the mothers immortal, were those who strove to bind into closer union first the ties of home, then the tribal units, and last the States that make a nation," he declared.

"We come today to pay homage and to bow in honor to four mothers of God fearing, home loving, union-inspired men who fought on foreign soil that each people might have the sort of nation or union which they desired, and not be a slave to a civilization foreign to their ancestors to whom they, as we, look for guidance."

Four Mothers Honored.

Those honored at the tree planting service were Mrs. Alice M. French, of Indianapolis, founder of the organization, and Mrs. Mabel C. Digney, White Plains, N. Y., Mrs. Margaret McCluer, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Mary E. Spence, of Milwaukee, all past national presidents.

At Quantico, Miss Jarvis, of Philadelphia, credited with the founding of the Mother's Day institution, was the guests of Commander W. R. Hall, chaplain of the post, and presented greetings to the Marines of the post at a mass service held at 10:30 o'clock. A special Mother's Day sermon was preached by Chaplain Hall.

The Rev. W. Michael Ducey, O. S. B., conducted a retreat yesterday at the Nazareth Social Center.

Services were held in commemoration of Mother's Day at the Y. M. C. A. Residents of the dormitory who are from scattered States, gathered at a breakfast to pay tribute to their mothers.

EDUCATORS TO MAKE PROHIBITION SURVEY

Pipkin, professor of comparaive government and dean of the graduate school, Louisiana State University; Dr. Charles Emerson Gehlke, professor of sociology, Western Reserve University; Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of experimental psychology, Stanford University; Dr. Emory Richard Johnson, dean of Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, University of Pennsylvania; and Dr. Samuel C. May, professor of political science, University of California.

The objective of the Bureau of Prohibition is to canvass the best thought on the subject in this particular plan exclusively from graduate students, only men and women working for their master's or doctor's degrees.

The council has been called to meet here the latter part of this month to formulate plans for this proposed research. It will prepare a program of subjects covering the field of prohibition and submit it to universities and colleges, where post-graduate students will be encouraged to select phases of the dry question as subjects for theses.

The bureau hopes, according to its announcement, "to ascertain the truth regarding the operation of the eighteenth amendment in the field of political science."

"A number of theses on one subject, carried out in various localities and ultimately submitted to the bureau for coordination and compilation, will give a wider horizon and a larger background than can be secured in any other way. A subject of investigation may be, 'How has the Operation of the Eighteenth Amendment Affected Child Delinquency?' or 'How Has It Affected Juvenile Drinking?'

"No compensation will be made by the Federal Government for this work. The members of the advisory council feel, as the bureau does, that the importance of scholarly work in collecting facts on the vexed question of what is really happening in the United States as a result of prohibition will appeal to scholarly minds as being well worth while. It is to be hoped that the bureau may be able to publish outstanding theses submitted.

"The reputation and character of the persons composing this council insure in advance the handling of research work in graduate schools along purely scientific lines. The utmost academic freedom is to be given directors of research and those graduate students who elect to investigate the subjects made by the council. It is facts that are wanted."

Of the ten members of the council eight possess the degree of doctor of philosophy and the two others, Dr. Cabot and Dr. May, are physicians, aside from the education they have received in other pursuits.

CAROL SEES PARADE OF SUBJECTS ALONE

terms of peace between her and Carol have been arranged and it only needs a final meeting of the royal pair to complete the reconciliation.

Today's parade was to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the declaration of Roumania's independence. The country's finest troops, in new uniforms, marched past the saluting place, the procession lasting for one and one-half hours.

Prince Nicholas rode at the head of the parade and Young Prince Michael sat in the grandstand between the former King and Queen of Greece.

The little crown prince looked pale after his recent illness of diphtheria, but obviously was pleased and interested in all the pomp and pageantry.

A vast crowd, many of whom came from distant provinces, witnessed the ceremony and greeted King Carol with great enthusiasm.

Watch Your Husband

A man's wife is usually the first to discover the thing that is holding her husband back. Frequently it is carelessness about personal appearance.

A suit may be new and still be unbecoming; it may lack personality and impart this negative quality to its wearer.

Women know the value of individuality in clothes . . . they prefer Tailor Made Clothes for their husbands, fathers and brothers, because they know that such apparel creates a good impression everywhere . . . It helps in the difficult business of getting on in the world.

Men may select any member of the Merchant Tailors' Guild with full assurance of complete satisfaction. Your clothes are designed by men who see you and know your individual requirements.

A DINNER A DOLLAR an A & P scholar

In times like these, when money isn't so plentiful as it might be, every woman is studying ways and means of stretching incomes to cover a multitude of things. Dinners and dollars are being examined more closely this year than ever before.

As a result, the old superstition that the best food must be high in price is wearing pretty thin. For, when a woman starts thinking hard about getting her money's worth, it isn't long before she's in an A & P store. And, once there, she simply can't believe that good food is expensive.

We admit we haven't as many frills and falderals as lots of stores have. But frills come high in grocery stores, and we find we can sell better things to eat at lower prices without them. Our regular customers look at it just about the same way we do—and so will you, if you go into that A & P store near you and cast a cool, scholarly eye over the food there.

POST WANT ADS PAY

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN TO AD CONTESTANTS

Entrants in Competition for Amateurs Are Offered Variety of Ideas.

Here are some more suggestions about the participating concerns to help you write prize winning ads in the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest. The only people who can not win in this contest are those who do not write ads. Now is your golden opportunity to win $100 first prize or the $165 ABC Washer, one of those three strands of triple Richelieu Pearls or one of the 175 merchandise awards that will be given at the close of the fifth week of this ad-writing contest.

Then there are all those special weekly prizes the participating concerns are giving. Make the most of the chance you have. Get busy and write your ads today.

Write About Pale Dry Ginger Ale.

What a peach of an ad you can write about National Pale Dry Ginger Ale. Read the box of special prizes that appears daily and see what added incentive you have for writing about this wonderful beverage. National Pale Dry Ginger Ale quenches thirst, stimulates the mind, banishes fatigue and produces health. The combination of the healthful wholesome qualities of National Pale Dry Ginger Ale make it the Nation's favorite drink for young and old. It is the beverage with the delightfully different taste.

The young men's department which recently has been created by the J. M. Stein & Co. is the talk of the town, offering unheard of values in tailored young men's wear, of the finest domestic materials and some imports. Let your ads about J. M. Stein feature this young men's department. Explain why a tailored suit is a greater asset to your personal appearance than a ready-made suit. Tell about the difference in materials in ready-made suits and tailored wear. Get busy and write that prize winning ad and win that tailored sport coat they are giving the writer of the best ad written during the contest.

University Offers Material.

Have you been reading the box of special prizes? Better unlock that storeroom of original ads and get busy writing poems, slogans or limericks about the Boyd Business University or the Boyd Employment Bureau and win that $5 prize they are giving each week.

Let your ad about the university tell about the different courses offered. Dwell on being prepared in life. Explain that they can train you in your chosen vocation. Lay the foundation for your success. Don't overlook their day and night courses. In writing about the employment bureau, feature their scientific selection of the right person for the right position. Explain how essential that is to the success of any business. Call at the Boyd Business University and get additional information, and while you are using that information to write ads now, at some later date those facts may be very valuable to you.

Men and women should find it easy to write about Deal Funeral Home. In the hours of sorrow, when death has come into your home, the quiet dignity, efficient management and sympathetic understanding that Deal Funeral Home, Inc., affords is unequaled. They have enjoyed the reputation of competent, efficient services for over a period of 20 years. Their funeral arrangements are complete and are reasonably priced.

NEW ADDITION AT WARDMAN PARK HOTEL

The above architects' drawing is of the Wardman Park new addition which contains over 300 rooms. It was erected at the cost of $2,000,000. This is only a part of the Wardman Park Hotel, which occupies a unique position among the great hotels of the world. Through its portals each year come the distinguished men and women of America and abroad who visit the Nation's Capital. It is the permanent Washington residence of many of the leaders in official, diplomatic and social life who serve their country in Washington. Such a notable clientele at all seasons of the year is probably not achieved by any other hotel in the world. One may enjoy one of those delightful dinner dances and may take a dip in their swimming pool and have all of these comforts and enjoyments at a modern rental. With facts like this that $1,000 prize-winning ad for The Post-Zain ad-writing contest should be easy to write. Write your ads about this hotel today and win one of those worth-while prizes that will be given at the close of the fifth week of this contest. That ad you write today may be the one to win that $1,000 grand prize at the end of this contest.

Many Find Mental as Well As Monetary Aid in Ad Test

Letters From Entrants Point Out That Fun and Pleasure Are Also Obtained in Competition Now in Its Fifth Week.

Have you won a prize in the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest? If you have, keep on writing ads and win more prizes; if you haven't, try again. It isn't too late. Read the following letters from some contestants who have won and some who have not. Then make up your mind you are going to be a winner and keep on trying just as these folks are doing. Where is that fighting spirit? Don't be a quitter. Come on everybody, get busy. You have until Wednesday noon to get your ads for the fifth week of this contest to the Editor of the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest at The Washington Post. Remember, it is never too late!

Dear Sir:

Thank you all very much for the lovely prize I won in this contest. It is very attractive and I am so glad to have it. This has spurred me on to try again. I am aiming at the big $1,000 prize, but if I miss that coveted bull's eye I am thankful to hit some of the smaller ones.

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how much I like The Post. The advertisers should let us write an advertisement on the advantages of advertising in such a fine paper.

Thanking you again, I am, very truly yours,

MRS. CHARLES J. BENEDICT.
Silver Spring.

Dear Sir: Add these ditties to my contribution for the week. They came to mind after I mailed the others.

Your contest is intriguing. It sets one to thinking and even though good to win a prize, the exercise is good for the brain. Hoping I win a prize this time, I am,

Yours respectfully,

EDWARD TAYLOR.
2004 Fifteenth street northwest.

Dear Sir: Inclosed are my amateur ads, my first attempt in this most interesting contest.

Although hoping that Lady Luck will smile on me, at the same time it has been an interesting pastime. I shall endeavor to write at least one ad about each of the remaining concerns within the next few days. Your allusion to the last-minute hit with three men on base has fired my enthusiasm, so that now I am in a fever to make a home run by winning one of the many excellent prizes.

Wishing you great success with this particular contest, I am,

An ardent subscriber,

MRS. DOLORES GREEN.
1330 Randolph street northwest.

Dear Sir: I agree with Mrs. Eden, of Clarendon, in her statement, "You write such clever ads in your editorials that I am tempted by plagiarism." Time and time again I have said to myself, "You may as well quit thinking about that contest, you know very well you are not clever enough to win anything"—then The Post comes, I read that editorial—and I begin to think again till I've finally mustered up courage to send some in.

(Name withheld by request.)

Dear Sir: I have now covered about one-third of the advertisers, and am trying for a big prize. I can at least be happy in the dream of having the $2,000—and who knows but what I might get it?

I find this a most enjoybale contest, and am sorry it does not last longer, for the more I write, the more ideas I get for ad writing.

Very truly yours,

VIRGINIA SMITH.
130-B street northeast.

Dear Sir: I received my box of Avignone Freres delicious candy today, which one of my ads won as a prize for me. I want to thank you. I feel as if I'd like to write pages and pages about it and let people who have never tried it know just what they are missing. Thank you again.

Respectfully,

MRS. H. M. SMYTHE.
Bowie, Md.

Dear Sir: I am the manager of the Hine Junior High School cafeteria and it is a real pleasure to see the children enjoy this splendid milk the Fairfax Farms Dairy sends us. Their service is splendid and the drivers are always courteous and respectful.

Hope to have a place in your list of prize winners this week. Have written many ads each week since the contest started.

ALICE T. DRAPER.
1227 Massachusetts avenue southeast.

Dear Sir: I want to tell you how much I am enjoying reading your paper for which I have subscribed and I am one of your Zain ad-writers, and am hoping to be able to capture that grand prize of $2,000 by writing an ad for Rizik Bros.'s wonderful store, for I really do think their Paris shop is a great store for women. Am doing my best by sending in a bunch of ads each day to the Post-Zain Contest.

Sincerely,

GEORGE W. WINCHESTER.

CHEAP FUNDS BOOST WEEK'S BOND PRICES

Greatest Gains Since Late Last Year Made Since Thursday's Market.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—The reduction in rediscount rates by several Federal Reserve banks were the most important events for the bond market last week.

There was general agreement in Wall street that the principal purpose of the rate changes was to stimulate the bond market, although they were regarded as only one step in the comprehensive policy of easy money which included three reductions in acceptance yield rates in the preceding two weeks. The basic idea is that surplus funds can be diverted from the short term market, where the supply is plethoric, to bonds and mortgages. Such a movement would encourage business expansion, it is thought.

The efforts of the Federal Reserve System to bring about this change have been drastic. There remains only one other means, the Federal Reserve's purpose the increase of the supply of money by the purchase of more United States Government securities.

However effective the theory may prove in the long run, the bond market made its most impressive gains last week since December. The Standard Statistics' composite average price for 30 bonds, including 10 each of industrials, railroads and public utilities, closed the week at 95.5, compared with 94.9 a week previously.

The advance was most apparent among railroad issues. The average price of ten representative rail bonds closed the week at 101.6 compared with 99.5 a week earlier.

Higher prices were general also among Public Utility and industrial obligations although the advance in them was narrower than in the rails. Foreign bonds divided their fluctuations between gains and declines. Stock privilege bonds moved upward irregularly with the corresponding stocks.

This week will witness some large governmental operations. Details of the conversion plans of the dominion Government of Canada, which will provide for the maturities of $250,000,000 or more of bonds within the next four years, will be announced.

The flotation of $66,748,000 in bonds and notes last week, the largest total in a month, might be regarded as further evidence of a revival. However, State and municipal issues provided more than a third of this total and bonds of this character have enjoyed a good market for some time.

New York May 10 (A.P.).—New municipal financing scheduled for award this week totals $62,722,922, compared with actual offerings last week of $30,536,000. The Bond Buyer reports. The largest issue is $53,000,000 New York City bonds, to be awarded Tuesday. Other than the New York City issue, the only large financing of the week will be an issue of $1,000,000 Knox County, Tenn., bonds, to be placed Monday.

Although the business news of the month has not been of a nature to inspire cheerfulness, the course of industrial production and distribution in the aggregate is following the usual seasonal tendencies, at least holding its own, the American Bankers Association Journal says in its monthly review of business. "The various accepted indexes of business activity are not entirely in agreement, some moving up slightly while others sag, which would seem to strengthen the prevailing opinion that business established a bottom last December after a continuous decline of eighteen month, since which time it has followed an almost horizontal course."

Raw silk shipments through the Panama Canal totaled 14,613 bales during April, as compared with 12,834 bales routed overland from West Coast ports, the Traffic Bureau of the Silk Association of America reports. European shipments were 1,999 bales, total imports being 29,446.

BUSINESS IS AIDED BY WARM WEATHER

Textiles and Shoes Show Good Activity; Cotton Fabrics Quieter.

New York May 10 (A.P.).—Convalescent business kept to its wheel chair during the past week, while the physicians held lengthy conferences at the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

The Federal Reserve System again administered its favorite tonic of rediscount rate reductions, the New York rate being cut to 1½ per cent, the lowest in history. Immediate results were not expected, but there was a wide tendency to believe that the tonic might be helpful over a period of time.

Symptoms which became manifest during the past week were largely of minor significance. The report of total building contracts for April was less unfavorable than the earlier part of the month had indicated, sending a 9 per cent drop from March. Steel production slackened, but only slightly. The recent upturn in freight car loadings was unchecked. Automobile production more than maintained its recent gains, and the motor trade would not be surprised if the month makes as good, or possibly a better showing, than April. The last month was the best since last June, but the lowest for April since 1922.

Retail trade has been helped by warm weather, and the textile and shoe industry continues to report relatively good activity. The reports of March shoe output and wool consumption showed actual gains over 1930. Current reports indicate that cotton goods are a little quieter. Silk goods have been active, but competition is extremely keen and raw silk in the New York market dropped to the lowest price in history.

Continued unsettlement of commodity prices remains a sore spot. Although Iron Age reported steel ingot output has sagged only to 47 per cent of capacity, from 48, its composite price of finished steel declined again, after several weeks of stability.

Nonferrous metals continued to sag. Some copper has been sold at 9 cents, a new low since the early 1890's. Large producers are unwilling to sell at that level, but consumers refuse to pay more, and at the moment are in no urgent need of metal.

2,000,000 Customer-Owners of Public Utilities

100,000 Associated Customer-Owners

One in 15 an Associated Customer-Investor

Customers think well enough of their local gas and electric company to invest in it. This was disclosed by a recent survey of 4,000 customers selected at random from among several million in 79 communities in 4 states.

The question asked was,
"Is anyone in your family a security holder in the local electric or gas company?"
Tabulation of the answers showed that one in 16 of the customers was an investor in his local electric company and one in 20 an investor in his local gas company.

Utilities Gain in Customer-Investors

For the country as a whole it is estimated there are 2,000,000 customers who have invested in their gas and electric companies. The gain in customer-ownership of securities during the past five years shows that the customers themselves are little disturbed by political agitation involving public utilities.

Instead of distress selling by customer-owners it appears that investors are turning toward their gas and electric companies as sound investment mediums.

Customers of the Associated Gas and Electric System have invested more than $91,000,000 in Associated securities. One in 15 of the customers served is a security holder. There were 25,385 new customer-investors gained in 1930.

That utility securities appeal to customers elsewhere than in the United States is manifest from the success of the first offering in the Philippine Islands. Associated System customers in Manila recently subscribed to $400,500 of Associated Securities. A sales quota of $200,000 had been set which was reached almost immediately.

Real worth of the securities of a public utility depends largely upon whether the company has adequate equipment and efficient management united in rendering good service. The fact that 99,490 Associated customers are shareholders is one of the best evidences of the value of Associated securities.

NATS BEAT DETROIT ON KUHEL'S HIT IN 12TH, 7-4

Marberry Holds Tigers After Double by Myer Deadlocks Game in 9th

Kuhel's Mental Lapse in 7th Costs Nats Earlier Decision.

Sensational Fielding by Tigers; Jones, Hadley Hurl.

By FRANK H. YOUNG,
(Post Staff Correspondent).

DETROIT, Mich., May 10.—Despite the fact that the Nationals outhit the Tigers, 16 to 7, a combination of bad "breaks" against them and inexperience shown by First Baseman Joe Kuhel on one play forced them to travel twelve innings before they were able to turn in victory, 7 to 4, and even then, they had to rally in the ninth to tie the count and avert defeat in regulation time.

Although his laxity made Kuhel look badly in the seventh and gave the Tigers a run which loomed mighty large until the Nationals equalized in the ninth, he also must be given credit for fully redeeming himself in the twelfth frame, for it was a slashing single off his bat, with the bases full and two out, which gave the Johnsons two thirds of their winning margin.

Myer coaxed a pass starting the twelfth and Sam Rice popped to center. Manush singled past McManus, sending Myer to second and both runners moved up on Cronin's infield out. When West finally drew a fourth ball, the aisles were packed and it was here that Kuhel contributed his big hit. It scored two and sent West to third, with the latter counting on Bluege's one shot to right.

Tigers' Field Spoils Not Rallies.

Previously, the Nats had received one bad break after another. In the fourth, McManus made what appeared to be a lucky stab to turn Bluege's liner into a double play with two on at the time; in the sixth, Alexander robbed West of a hit with a man on in the same manner; while Roy Johnson turned in no less than three spectacular catches of balls which would have been hits had they been only a foot or so to one side or the other.

Even on the play which made Kuhel look bad in the seventh, Gehringer, up for Hoyt, was given life when his foul merely skidded off the screen into Hargrave's mitt, making the catch null and void. One was out at the time with Owen on second and Hayworth on first. Gehringer finally hit a sharp grounder to Kuhel, who first fumbled the ball and then slid into the bag instead of tossing to Hadley, who was covering. Kuhel, who had no idea that Owen would try to go all the way from second to home on the play, seemed to temporarily lose his bearings and, as a result, his throw was late.

Nats Make Five Doubles.

Besides outhitting their foes better than two to one, five of the Washington blows were doubles while the Tigers had to be satisfied with singles. Five pitchers were used throughout the game but none was knocked out. Johnson started Sad Sam Jones and then called on Irving Hadley and Fred Marberry, with the latter being credited with the victory. Waite Hoyt gave way to George Uhle in time to keep the defeat from his record.

West's double and Kuhel's single in the second put the Nats in the lead, but the home team came right back in its half with a three-run splurge. It consisted of a base on balls and singles by Alexander, McManus, Owen and Hayworth.

The Nationals overlooked two golden opportunities before finally knotting the string in the seventh. Then, after Pinch Hitter Harry Rice had singled and the next two had been retired, Sam Rice inserted a one-baser and Manush doubled both runners home.

In the seventh, the Tigers went one up on Kuhel's carelessness and, just as the crowd of about 23,000 began to leave for home, the Nats tied the score again in the ninth.

Bluege Opens With Double.

Bluege opened this round with a lusty double to the score board in left center and Uhle struck out Pinch Hitter Jack Hayes, who wasted two strikes trying to sacrifice, and Hargrave flew out. Uhle had two strikes on Myer and no balls when the little second-sacker shot a double down the left field foul line to prolong the game and to prevent a fourth successive defeat for the Nationals.

There were no serious threats from then on until the finish, Marberry being particularly effective in his four-frame relief shift.

In addition to his game-deciding single, Kuhel led the swatsmiths of both teams by getting two other one baggers. Myer, Manush, Cronin, West and Bluege hit safely twice each, both of Myer's being doubles.

U. S. Golf Pros Open Campaign in England

Southport, England, May 10 (A.P.).—More than 300 professionals from Great Britain, Continental Europe, North and South America and Australia open the "big money" golfing season here tomorrow in the Southport tournament.

"Big money" isn't so big here as it is in American tournaments, but the 1,500 guineas, or about $7,000 hung up has proved a magnet strong enough to draw high class international representation.

Horton Smith, Joe Kirkwood, Joe Turnesa and Tony Manero are entered from the United States, and with the four Argentines,—Jose Jurado, Tomasco Centa, Marco Churio and Hector Freccero—present a formidable all-American challenge. Willie Hunter also was to have competed, but decided to scratch so as to have more time to visit his father, Harry Hunter, at the Royal Cinque Sports Club at Deal, where he is the oldest active professional in Great Britain.

England, Japan, Egypt Advance in Cup Play

Brussels, Belgium, May 10 (A.P.).—Great Britain's Davis Cup tennis team clinched its second round tie with Belgium today by winning the doubles. F. J. Perry and G. P. Hughes conquered the Belgium pair, I. D. E. Borman and A. Lacroix, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—4, 6—2. England won both singles matches.

Helsingfors, Finland, May 10 (A.P.).—Egypt advanced to the third round of Davis Cup competition by eliminating Finland in their second round tie completed today, four matches to one. Egypt won both of the final singles matches.

J. Grandguillot defeated A. Grahn, 8—6, 7—5, 7—5, 6—2, and Wahid conquered D. Grotenfelt, 6—3, 2—6, 6—4, 6—4.

Egypt's next foe will be Japan.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, May 10 (A.P.).—Japan clinched its second round Davis Tennis tie with Jugoslavia today by winning the doubles and now will face Egypt in the third round.

J. Satoh and M. Kawachi defeated the Jugoslavian team of F. Schaeffer and F. Kukuljevic, 9—7, 3—6, 9—7, 6—3. The Japanese captured both singles matches yesterday.

WINS AT LONGCHAMPS.

Longchamps, France May 10 (A.P.).—Count Olivier De Rivaud's sensational four year old Chateau Bouscaut, captured the Prix du Cadran, at two miles here today. Florio was second and Godiche third. Chateau Bouscaut took down the major share of the $8,000 purse and paid 7 to 5 in the betting.

The Ballston A. C. routed the State Department nine yesterday on the former's diamond by a 20-5 score. McQuinn, who hurled for the winners, had complete control of the situation at all times.

LIONEL SENIORS AHEAD.

Fischer Gets Chance at Detroit

Southpaw Is Likely to Draw Bridges as Foe Today.

Harris Likes Owen, Young Infielder; Manush Stars.

Special to The Washington Post.

DETROIT, Mich., May 10—That today's game was played is nothing short of a miracle for heavy rain fell all morning and it was not until half an hour before game time that the skies stopped leaking, the sun made its appearance, the fans started making the turnstiles click with the rapidity of a revolving electric fan, and play began under quite favorable circumstances.

For tomorrow, the final game of the series here, more unfavorable weather is predicted and the teams may not be fortunate enough to get into action. If they do, however, Manager Walter Johnson plans to use Carl Fischer, young southpaw, on the hill while Tom Bridges, a right-hander, is expected to do the Tiger flinging.

"Bow-wow" Meyers, Tiger coach last year, whose ceaseless and meaningless chatter earned him the title of "All-American earacher," is no longer with the Harrismen. This, no doubt, will prove welcome news to Washington fans, for his rasping voice took much of the joy out of their baseball, when the Tigers visited the Capital City.

Myer Walks to First On Strikeout.

With the count three and two on him opening the game, Myer watched the next ball go by and then calmly trotted to first. Imagine his embarrassment when, upon arriving there, Umpire Nallin gave him the sad news that he had struck out.

Outfielder Sam West seems to be specializing in extra base blows, especially doubles. He cracked out his seventh two-bagger in the second frame today. As he did not start playing until April 28, he has done quite well in this respect. He also has cracked out a brace of triples.

Manager Bucky Harris is mighty sweet on Marvin Owen, the 22-year-old rookie, who is filling in at short for the Tigers while Second Baseman Charley Gehringer is nursing a sore arm. Owen's natural berth is first base, a position he filled when he graduated from Santa Clara University last June and signed with the Seattle Club. He was converted into a shortstop by the Coast leaguers and has played that position only four months. He looks like a finished product there for the Tigers.

Jones issued the first pass of the game in the second and it was turned into a run. In the next frame, he coaxed one while leading off and the combined efforts of Myer, Sam Rice and Manush could not advance him past first.

Manush Makes Good Catch.

Manush came in fast to make a fancy shoestring catch of Hubby Walker's drive in the third. He snared the ball within an inch or so of the ground and was given quite a hand by the large crowd.

A single by Jones and a double by Myer did the Nats no good in the fifth, although both came with only one out. Jones had to slow up to make sure Johnson would not catch Myer's drive and so got no farther than third on it, while Sam Rice's liner to right was too close in to permit him to register after the catch. This put it up to Manush but his best was a looper to left. A single here would have tied the string, 3-all.

A lucky stab by Alexander cost Sam West a hit and the Nats a possible run in the sixth. After Cronin had led off with a single, West shot one down the first base line. Alexander actually ducked while sticking out his glove for it and the ball landed in the webbing. It was then an easy play for hm to peg to second to force out Cronin.

Johnson put in pinch hitters for his battery starting the seventh. Harry Rice, up for Spencer, led off with a single, but Hargrave, up for Jones, lined directly at Johnson.

Hoyt tried to slip over a pitch when Myer was not ready in the seventh, and there was considerable argument put up by the Tigers when Umpire Nallin did not count the coffering, a strike right down the middle. Cose Patten, Washington southpaw, used to get away with this stunt many years ago, but it is not possible now.

Johnson Robs Cronin Of Safety.

Roy Johnson came in fast and over toward the foul line to rob Cronin of a safety starting the eighth. It was quite a catch.

Alexander sent Sam Rice all the way back to the right field fence for a liner ending the home eighth.

Johnson backed up against the edge of the stands in right center to grab Manush's liner opening the tenth. The drive looked to be a sure double as it left the bat.

Myer made three good plays in the alien eleventh. After hustling over toward first to grab successive liners by Koenig and Alexander, he made the third out by taking Hargrave's bad peg to stop Stone, who had walked, from stealing.

Manush's single in the twelfth almost tore off McManus' bare hand. It advanced Myer from first to second.

STRANGELY enough, James Turner, of Atlanta, Ga., gave up drinking water for his health, despite the fact that most doctors urge large quantities for good health. He refuses even to sip coffee, tea, or other beverages.

He gets the necessary amount of liquid by drinking the juice of several grapefruit every day. His diet consists of leaf vegetables, lean meat, carrots, raw cabbage, and an abundance of fruit. Turner often takes long walks under a blazing sun, but never gets thirsty.

Though he lived in Verdun during the entire time it was under heavy fire, Henri Buchner has just learned that the World War took place. Early in 1912 Buchner received a head injury that paralyzed his mental faculties, and for 19 years he lay in a semicomotose state, unable to understand anything said to him and entirely insensible to what was going on about him.

The terrible din of the German bombardments went unnoticed by Buchner. Friends had to drag him to cover whenever enemy raids occurred. A few weeks ago a surgeon performed an operation upon Buchner, which enabled him to recover the use of all of his faculties.

The hunger rock has been an unfailing prophet for 500 years. The rock has lived up to its evil omen since 1417 when a record low level of the Elbe was first recorded. In 1918 the waters sank to the lowest mark in the history of the "Hungerstein," and the fortunes of the German people also sank to a low level, justifying once more the sinister prediction of the rock.

Durham Settles Down to Win; Webb Is Batting Star.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 10 (A.P.).—Overcoming a four-run lead compiled by Cleveland in the first inning, the Boston Red Sox today batted out their third straight victory in the series, 9 to 4.

The Red Sox tied the score in the third inning off Mel Harder and Fay Thomas and continued to pile up a wide margin off the latter, and Pinky Shoffner. Earl Webb got three hits, including a home run and double, in three times at bat, and Rothrock made three hits in four trips. After suffering a four-run assault in the first inning, Durham clamped down on the Indians the rest of the way.

TwentyGrand Still Derby Choice

Held at 5 to 2 With Mate 7 to 2 After Preakness Test.

Equipoise Now 4 to 1 Shot; Longer Route At Kentucky.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, May 10 (A.P.).—Although A. C. Bostwick's Mate defeated Twenty Grand and five other crack 3-year-olds in the Preakness at Pimlico, Twenty Grand, ace of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable, still rules the favorite to win the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs next Saturday.

Following upon Mate's brilliant victory in the Pimlico stake, Tom Shaw, Eastern bookmaker, immediately slashed the odds on the Bostwick flash from 7 to 1 to 7 to 2, but he also lowered the quotations on Twenty Grand to 5 to 2. C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, the big disappointment in the Preakness, today was the third choice in the future books at 4 to 1.

It was the first time the Whitney star had dropped so low in the estimation of the bookmakers since the 130 horses were named for the Derby early in February.

Derby Route Is Longer.

Mate defeated Twenty Grand by one and one-half lengths Saturday, but the Preakness route is only 1 3-16 miles as compared with the Derby distance of 1¼ miles. At the end of the Pimlico battle for the purse of $48,225, both horses were full of run, although Twenty Grand appeared the fresher. Charlie Kurtsinger did not let the big son of St. Germans-Bonus run until the field rounded the stretch turn and he then closed ground like a fleet hare. Had Kurtsinger judged the pace better, some experts thought, the race probably would have been much closer.

On the basis of his showing in the Preakness, Equipoise does not appear to be a good 4 to 1 shot. He trailed in fifth and sixth place, for the greater part of the journey and then failed to respond to the lash of the whip, finishing three lengths back of Mate in fourth place. He was a very weary horse at the end of the journey and unless he shows decided improvement seems to have little chance in the Derby.

Benjamin Block's Morstone, the "dark horse" of the Derby now, is being quoted at 12 to 1. Before he won his first race at Jamaica, Morstone was quoted at 200 to 1.

Sweepall Has Backers.

Charles T. Fisher's Sweep All has not won a race as a 3-year-old, but he shares the position of favorite among Western eligibles with Spanish Play, winner of the Louisiana Derby. Shaw is quoting 20 to 1 on each. T. E. Muller's Pittsburgher, winner of two races over Kentucky tracks, and Griffin Watkins' Insco, a fast workout horse, are held at 25 to 1, while H. C. Hatch's Canadian-owned Boys Howdy, winner of the Cuban Derby at Havana and conqueror of ten Derby hopefuls last week, is at 30 to 1.

Walter Salmon's Ladder showed he could go the route in the Preakness, finishing third, and as a result his odds have been cut to 30 to 1. The same odds are offered on the Greentree Stable's Surf Board. Anchors Aweigh, third of the Greentree Sable's trio of stars, is at 25 to 1, but in the event of rain his odds will go much lower as he is a known mudrunner.

French Holds Dodgers As Pirates Win, 3 to 1

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 10 (A.P.).—Larry French's effective pitching baffled the Robins here today and the Pittsburgh Pirates celebrated their initial appearance in the East with a 3-to-1 victory.

Phelps pitched steady ball, but was tagged for a run in the fifth on a pass to Phillips, Thevenow's single, French's sacrifice and Lloyd Waner's single. In the eighth Traynor doubled with two on, driving home one run. The other scored when O'Doul fumbled the drive in deep left.

With two out in the ninth Brooklyn staged its only rally. After Bissonette and Lopez had singled, Pinch-Hitter Lombardi doubled against the wall in right to drive in one run. With runners on second and third and a single needed to tie the score, French fanned O'Doul to end the game.

FIELD OF 20 MAY FACE BARRIER IN DERBY SATURDAY

West Expects Long Shot to Triumph

'Absence of Bradley's Entry Surprise at Louisville.

Better Field Than in 1930 to Face Test, Is Indication.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 10 (A.P.).—Churchill Downs today prepared for the invasion of Eastern candidates for the $50,000 Kentucky Derby next Saturday, which follows the running of the Preakness at Pimlico. Derby depesters continud to consider the Eastern candidates have the strongest hand in the contention, but are certain the eligibles training here will give them a run for their money.

Withdrawal of Col. E. R. Bradley's pair, Barometer and B'ar Hunter, was a surprise to his many admirers who always back his entries, but the records of Pittsburgher, Insco, Spanish Play, Boys Howdy, Prince D'Amour, Don Leon and Sweep All in Kentucky races have given them plenty of possibilities from which to pick a horse to stave off the Eastern attack.

The Derby field will comprise the best of the survivors of the finest crop of 2-year-olds in recent years. It is general opinion here that the field will have more class than last year's over which Gallant Fox triumphed. The race is expected to be wide open, with no heavy favorite.

Zev Was Outstanding Derby Long Shot.

Results of betting through the pari mutuel machines before the race, say the experts, is considerably different from odds quoted by future books, and some say the latest outstanding Derby long shot price, $40 for $2, hung up by Zev, may be equaled.

Twenty Grand, second in the Preakness, probably will be heavily backed by Kentuckians because of his race here in the Jockey Club Stakes last year, when he defeated Equipoise and set a new American mile record for 2-year-olds, 1:36. Too much emphasis is not being place on Mate's victory in the Preakness, for Gallant Fox last year was the first horse in several years to win both events.

Indications today were that 20 horses would face the barrier in the mile and a quarter classic. In the event such a large field goes to the post, the new Bahr starting gates at the Downs this year would not be used. The gate accommodates four-teen horses, and it is a practical certainty that more than that number will be run in the Derby.

—Churchill Downs Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 10.—With the result of the Preakness decided, the eyes of the turf world will focus its attention on this locality for a week. Already many horesmen have started the trek to the Blue Grass State to prepare their charges for the Kentucky Derby, which will be run over the Downs course this coming Saturday.

In anticipation of a large attendance tomorrow, a well-balanced program has been arranged with the Tyler Hotel Purse, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward as the special feature. The overnight event carries a purse value of $1,400, and will be contested at the mile route.

A field of twelve speedy milers will face the barrier in the fifth, with MIKE HALL, recent Agua Caliente Handicap winner, as the logical choice. The Eastman 7-year-old, nicely weighted with 115 pounds, has trained briskly for his return, since his sensational triumph in the Mexican event, and appears ready to contest the issue. BEST MAN, owned by H. M. Woolf a recent winner at this track, is in prime condition and figures to gain the place. THISTLE FYRN, consistent mare in the G. Collins Stable, appears best of the others for the minor award.

The fourth event, the Greenwood Purse, has attracted eleven 3-year-olds and upward, which will be dispatched over the 6-furlong distance. CHIMNEY SWEEP, coupled with CRAZY COOT as the C. V. Whitney entry, is favored over this band of sprinters. The Whitney colorbearers also are singled out as the best bet of the day. FOOT MARK closed fast last out, to finish second after a poor start, and should go well here. ZACAWEISTA, fleet son of High Time, stepped five panels in 1:02 2-5 as a final prep, and should get into the money.

FIRST RACE—A field of twenty maiden 2-year-olds will contest the purse in the opening 5-furlong dash, an allowance affair. K. RUSSELL, a promising Prince Pal colt in the M. Goldblatt string, is favored to graduate from this band of nonwinners. GOLD TIP has never faced the barrier but has trained for his debut and is the place selection. LIBERTY LIMITED raced greenly in his first start and figures to improve off that effort.

SECOND RACE—ROMANY BAW, from the Greentree Stable appears best of the twenty platers entered in the 6½ furlongs of the second number. The Westy Hogan colt scored impressively in his last start at Lexington and should repeat against this company. ESTIN has run some fair races recently and must concede a chance on his best efforts. BEIGE would prove troublesome over a muddy track. HAMILTON appeared short last start and may get into the picture.

THIRD RACE—Some fleet juveniles will match strides over the 5 furlongs of the third, which received a lite of fifteen entries. PRINCESS IVRE, a double winner at Lexington, scored her last victory within a fifth of a second of the track record and appears well suited by the conditions. IMA HIGH ONE, a highly regarded filly from the Dixiana Stable, with 110 pounds, should furnish the opposition. BUTTER BEANS has been in the money in eleven of her twelve starts and is given the show call.

SIXTH RACE—TYPHOON, useful plater in the Harned Brothers string, will favor the mile and sixteenth distance of the sixth heat. The Harned racer is in fit condition and figures to lead his six opponents to the wire. KNIGHT COMMANDER is the contender and should finish in the runner-up position. DARK SEA defeated a fair field last start and rates the show call.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding number, another limit field of twenty of the older horses in training will contest the purse over the mile and an eighth distance, under claiming conditions. DUELIST, from Mrs. E. L. Swikard's Stable, figures to repeat his last winning effort. EARL OF WARWICK raced wide in his two previous starts, and with a stronger rider in the saddle, the Collins' racer may prove dangerous. GOTOIT may find the distance a trifle too far. However, the Goldblatt filly should last to save the show.

Rain in Providence Stops G. U.; Play Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Providence, R. I., May 10.—Rain caused postponement of the baseball game scheduled between Providence College and Georgetown University here today. The Hilltoppers gained permission from their authorities to remain over to play the game tomorrow. Their trip to New England thus far has resulted in two defeats, at the hands of Boston College and Holy Cross.

The C. A. O'Briens emerged victorious in their game with the Linworth A. C. on the Monument Grounds yesterday. The final score was 15-10. Errors and ineffectiveness on the part of five hurlers marred the game.

302 to Tee Off Tomorrow In Chevy Chase Invitation

Largest Field in History of Event Includes Golfers of National Reputation; Pitt to Defend Title.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WITH an entry of 302 names, the largest in the history of the club, the sprnig invitation tournament of the Chevy Chase Club will open tomorrow morning. Harry G. Pitt, Manor, who has won the event the lats three seasons, is entered to defend his title, and Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, who has consistently been runner-up, will endeavor to break the hoodoo which has so far resulted in his defaet.

A national interest attaches to the event, as Max Marston, former national champion, who defeated Jess Sweetser on the thirty-eighth hole at Flossmoor by reason of a stymie, will come down from Philadelphia to participate, and George S. Lyon, who holds the record of eight times amateur champion of Canada, arrived in Washington yesterday with a delegation of Canadian players.

In addition to these noted contestants, B. Warren Corkran, of the Baltimore Country Club, who has more titles to his credit than there are letters in his name, is also entered, and there is a representative lits of local golfers, including many club champions. Earl Naiden, former Army champion, is also entered. As only four sixteens will qualify, it is evident that the struggle for qualification will demand the best golf that can be shown by the competitors who are entered. The pairings and times of play are as follows:

CLEVER PITCHING IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE GAMES

Griffiths, Medicos, Saks, Dixies, Capitol Heights Win 2nd Straight Games

Columbia Heights in First Win; Lewis' Hit Decides.

Ensor, Wesley, Stahl and Hogarth Stars in Section A.

Lewis Wins in Duel at Walter Reed in Section B.

Luckett, Hutchinson, Barnell, Colloton in Hero Roles.

SECTION A.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Dixie Pigs	2	0	1.000
Griffith-Blue Coal	2	0	1.000
S. Joseph's	1	1	.500
Columbia Heights	1	1	.500
Ciro's Illazers	0	2	.000
Congress Heights	0	2	.000

HARD-FOUGHT pitching battles featured games played in Section A of the Capital City League yesterday, and these, enhanced by the several uphill fights to win, produced some of the best baseball witnessed on local sandlots to date this season.

The Griffith-Blue Coals and Dixie Pigs tied for the leadership yesterday, the former by defeating the previously unbeaten St. Joseph's A. C., 6-3, and the latter by subduing Ciro's Italian Villagers, 8-5. In the third game, Columbia Heights broke into the win column by taking the Congress Heaths nine into camp by an 8-5 score. It was the second straight loss for both the Villagers and Congress Heights.

"Tack" Ensor, after presenting the Saints with a three-run lead in the first inning, aided by some erratic play of his teammates, settled down and hurled the remaining eight frames in big league fashion, granting his opponents only five hits over the entire route.

Griffiths Rally Behind Ensor.

The Griffs rallied admirably behind his steady pitching and after tying the score in the seventh, went one run ahead in the eighth, and put the game far beyond the reach of their opponents with a duo of markers in the final frame. "Cy" Hogarth continued his good stickword, collecting two out of five, including a triple. The team's showing had "Wee Willie" Glascoe wearing his broadest smile, which is a long way from his expression after last Sunday's contest.

Jake Lewis' double which scored three runners and won the game for Columbia Heights in the eighth inning, featured that team's win over the Congress Heights aggregation. Until Jakie was inserted into the fray, Manager Charley Hiwards' charges were trailing by one run. Lester Singman, who usually cavorts around shortstop, played a bang-up game at the initial sack for the Columbias. In addition to handling four chances in errorless fashion, Singman connected for two clean hits, one a triple in five appearances at the plate. "Babe" Wesley granted the losers only eight hits, and he managed to keep these well scattered.

Dixie Pigs Beat Ciros.

Deadlocking the issue with one run in the seventh round, the Dixie Pigs counted three more in the eighth inning to gain the decision over the Ciro team. The Pigs were hard pressed at the way, and with better support from his cohorts, Scagnelli, Ciro hurler, might have set the barbecue nine down for its first loss. Scagnelli received extremely ragged support just when it appeared that he would be unscathed. Wilner's brainy playing at third, and his clouting, partially atoned for this poor defensive work of mates. "Huck" Stahl of the pigs also drove one into deep left-center for a triple. Dove played a great game at third for the winners, whose play as a whole was good.

Lighted Tennis Courts Due Here Next Week

Work on the reinstallation of the floodlights bordering the tennis courts and miniature golf course at the Monument Grounds will start today, it was announced yesterday by the Welfare and Recreation Association. The lights will be put in operation the first part of next week.

For the remainder of the month the lights will be turned on at sunset and off at 10:30 o'clock. Next month the hours will be from 8 to 11 o'clock.

SECTION B.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Saks Clothiers	2	0	1.000
Army Medicos	2	0	1.000
Capitol Heights	2	0	1.000
Majestic Radio	0	2	.000
Foxhall	0	2	.000
Federal Storage	0	2	.000

ALTHOUGH they finally lost the decision, the Federal Storage tossers provided the biggest surprise of the games played in Section B, of the Capital City League unlimited race, by forcing the Army Medicos to the limit before bowing, 1 to 0. In the other games played in this section, Saks Clothiers continued their winning ways by defeating the Majestic Radio nine, 6 to 4, while Capitol Heights was also winning its second straight by scoring a 7-to-2 victory over Foxall.

Al Lewis, of the Medicos, and Tamagni, of the Feds, hooked up in an honest-to-goodness mound duel, the former granting only five hits and the latter six. Not until the fatal ninth did Tamagni weaken, and then he walked Norman, who counted a moment later on Colloton's stinging double. Mann and Cohen bagged four of the Federal's six hits between them. Duke was the only soldier able to solve Tamagni's offerings more than once. He, too, was credited with two safe blows.

Saks Nine Scores Five Runs.

One big inning, the third, when Saks Clothiers scored five runs, was sufficient to plaster the second successive defeat on the Majestic Radios. Thompson, who started for the Majestics, was breezing along in great style until the third, when he suddenly lost his control and walked a quartet of Saks batters. Di Nenna, who relieved him, was far more effective, granting only two hits and fanning nine.

Bill Payne, Western High School moundsman, handled the winner's pitching in fine fashion, although there were times when he filled the bases and was forced to strike out the final batter to get by. He started a double play in the ninth, when two Majestic runners were on, to conclude the game. Luckett, behind the plate for the Clothiers, deserved the lion's share of the credit for the victory because of his great receiving. He was also the only Saks player to get two hits.

Hutchinson Near Fame.

Eddie Hutchinson almost twirled a no-hit, no-run game against the Foxall A. C. yesterday. The Foxall crew spoiled the no-hit portion in the eighth, and then wound up by ruining the no-run part in the ninth with a pair of markers. Varnell's triple with the bases loaded in the third canto started the eHights team on its way to victory. Moreland, with three out of four also showed well at bath. L. Donaldson failed to baffle the Capitols, no less than 16 hits being culled from his offerings. Mattare, at second, played a good game for the losers.

HISER STARS BEATEN BY RED SOX

Jervett Leads Attack in 7-5 Victory at Riverdale.

THE Washington Red Sox won their seventh consecutive game of the season yesterday, winning from Hiser's All-Stars before a large crowd on the Riverdale Field, 7-5. It required the combined efforts of three Red Sox pitchers to subdue the All-Stars, but the trio allowed only seven safe bingles between them.

Jervett was the shining light in the victor's attack, lacing out two triples and a single in four trips to the plate. He also performed creditably afield, and was called upon for mound duty near the end of the contest. Waters, who hurled for the Hisermen, granted eleven hits, which mingled with his teammates' costly errors cost him the game. He partially made up for his ineffectiveness by connecting for two hits in three attempts.

WOMEN STRONGEST IN SUFFERING, SAYS PASTOR, IN SERMON

Dr. Harvey B. Smith Pays Tribute to Motherhood From Pulpit.

SEES MAN FALTERING UNDER SORROW'S TEST

Life of the Nazarene and Mary's Faith and Love Held Examples.

Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of the Columbia Heights Christian Church, in his sermon yesterday morning took his text, appropriately, from John 19:27, "Behold Thy Mother."

His sermon, in part, follows:

"Dramas of many types come and go. A few have within themselves the grace of enduring for generations. There is one that is supreme. It is the life of the Nazarene. In the calendar of humanity and the rights of great and small, His teachings are front page copy with all who think clearly about the common good.

"The last scenes in His life appear. The cross is to be measured by new tests. World manhood is facing a new standard. Violence is writing the chapter, but love is ruling the scene. The faces of His mother and of His intimate friend appear in the anguish of His death. Mary leans heavily on the strength of John, the beloved. The Master commits the one He loves best to the friend He has found most worthy. 'Woman, behold thy son!' Then to John, 'Behold thy mother.'

"John takes her to his own home from that hour, and Mary becomes mother to him, and he a son to her.

Strongest in Suffering.

"In a nation where motherhood was peculiarly honored, John honors Mary as the mother of seven children, the oldest one being his own masterful friend and teacher, now dying on the cross. Perhaps his own mother had gone from him. Mary now comes into his life in her stead. Having given so lavishly of her own soul to the training of her family, she is prepared to receive him in the place of the one who is going from her.

"Woman has always been at her best and shown her most divine quality when her mother instinct faces the problem of suffering. Man goes down under tests of sorrow and anguish when that same test will reveal a strength and power in the mother that is heroic. Fighting the diseases of her child, facing the enemies of the child's welfare, battling for health, rights and privileges which she feels her child should have, the mother comes into her kingdom and we behold her with a devotion that is unstained and give her the honor that is her due.

"John had been often in the presence and home of Mary, but it would be a fascinating story if we had the conversation and confidences that they shared during the hours following the death of her Son.

Filled With Children's Voices.

"The Nazareth home of Joseph and Mary was filled with the voices of children. We have the names of four brothers of Jesus and sisters (at least two). If Joseph died some years before Jesus entered His public ministry, then the father's burden must have come to Him. To His mother He would be especially dear as the one who had shared the mature responsibilities of the home. Now the tragedy of death falls across her life. This child of wonder, wisdom and singular grace has gone. But yesterday, He was filling her future with strange promises of a rare manhood. Her people were to be blest in His life. The future was seen through the eyes of a mother who strangely sensed the hand of God in the life of her Son. Now, the curtain falls. Confusion reigns. The hours when the light falls are being met. 'Why must this come to me?' is a question she asked for each of us, in a like hour. John saw her meeting the test.

"As hearts become sore with the long hours of shadow, sleep eases the burden, the second morning arrives. Strange reports come. "He is risen" is shouted in that inner circle.

Prayer Directing Force.

"Mary is among the first to believe that He lives. John sees her now as faith places its crown on her life and sorrow goes. We read of His appearance and conversation with His disciples, but what tenderness, what love, what glorious understandings must have come to Mary's heart as she began to sense the true meaning of His Kingdom which was not of this world. He must have told her many things and answered many questions from her heart as He talked with her those last days on earth. The spiritual meaning of His life began to appear in power. The daring of Jesus began to challenge His disciples. 'Ye shall have power when the Holy Spirit shall come upon you.' 'Tarry in Jerusalem until ye be endued with power.' John now sees Mary as the leader of the prayer life of the women and sharing the expectation of all. John saw all this.

"A mother's prayer has been one of life's great directing powers. John heard Mary pray. She must have moved the souls of that group as she voiced her mother heart, when 'These all with one accord continued steadfastly in prayer, with the women and Mary, the mother of Jesus, and with His brethren.'

Ending Is Fitting.

"The last mention of Mary in the sacred story is the prayer meeting scene. How fitting that the curtain falls on her life as she seeks God's will and power through prayer. The upper room, the inner circle, the glory of the days just past, the wonder of what is to come, all conspire to help us see in Mary, the type of the godly mother, who has blest the world with sons and daughters of integrity, industry, honesty and great moral and spiritual values. Perhaps much of the fineness of John's soul and writing was due to those last days of Mary's life, in his home. He saw the perfect love of an understanding mother's heart.

"Every child is entitled to a praying, godly mother. Women may smoke, drink liquor and make themselves cheap in the eyes of men of fine souls. Freedom may riot in license and vulgarity come to womanhood. But that son or daughter is blest of life who can remember through all the years his mother as one who could say out of a consistent life 'God bless my child!' Such a benediction must have been in the soul of John as he lived, wrote and saw the meaning of life.

FOUR GENERATIONS GROUP

Four generations in a family are photographed here. Seated is Mrs. Laura Goetzinger, of 1150 Connecticut avenue; on her lap is her great-grandson, Richard Rhodes; standing at the left is Mrs. Goetzinger's daughter, Mrs. E. W. Boyle, and at the right, her granddaughter, Mrs. Irving Rhodes.

MOTHERS WILL ASK RELIEF FOR JOBLESS

Delegation Here to Appeal to Hoover for Special Congress Session.

As throngs gathered at Arlington National Cemetery yesterday to pay tribute to those mothers who lost sons in the World War, a Mother's Day delegation of an entirely different sort gathered in Washington.

They are 32 mothers and children of the unemployed who arrived in the Capital yesterday in hopes of appearing before President Hoover today and urging him to call a special session of Congress at once in an attempt to do something for the relief of the jobless.

The mothers and children represent seven States and came here from Danville, Va., New Bedford, Mass., Baltimore, Philadelphia, Patterson, N. J., and New Haven, Conn.

Two mothers and a child from the West Virginia coal fields will seek Executive clemency for victims of the coal situation there. Their attempt to reach the President is being arranged by the People's Lobby, of which Prof. John Dewey is president.

Mrs. Anna Coppola, who represents New Haven in the delegation, will present the case of her husband, Michael, who was employed as a lockmaker for sixteen years, but who lost his job nearly a year and a half ago. He has found no steady work since, and has had only a few weeks of casual work. The couple faces the problem of supporting three children between the ages of 4 and 9 years.

Mrs. Armita Johnson, of Cedar Grove, W. Va., is the wife of a miner who has been out of work for thirteen months. Working for a firm in the Kelley's Creek area, he was discharged when he attempted to join the union, she says. He made $50 a month and less when he was working, and the money went to support two children, 11 and 15. Johnson, his wife says, has been unable to find other work because he lost a foot in the mines.

Mrs. Pearl Shiflet, of Ward, W. Va., is here with her 9-year-old son. Her husband, who worked in the mines for five years, has been employed only two and one-half months since last August. She says that about one-third of the men formerly employed at the colliery are blacklisted because they do not trade at company stores.

Mrs. J. O. Morrison and her 11-year-old son, Eugene, represent the textile workers of Danville. Her husband has been out of work for a year, and Mrs. Morrison since last August. She declares that her husband was laid off when he joined the United Textile Workers of America, while the mill were she worked closed down when the union was organized there. They have been evicted from the company home in which they were living, she says.

Lockwood Declares Conditions Are Better

A black-haired fighter of 88 years, enjoying his first pilgrimage here in a half-century, told a National Broadcasting company audience yesterday afternoon over Station WRC that "times are getting better and better; I can remember when times were really bad." He is Capt. Charles W. Lockwood, lone survivor of the famous "Last Man's Club," who last July drank a toast to his dead comrades in the forty-sixth reunion with wine put away in 1884 by the original 34 members.

Capt. Lockwood, in his brief radio talk, related the history of the Last Man's Club and the death last year of Peter Hall, whose passing left him the lone survivor. He is sojourning with George A. Duthie, chief of the division of information, U. S. Forest Service, at his home, 641 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

700 WOMEN MAKE CAPITAL JOURNEY

National Council of Jewish Women Sponsors Trip of Americanization.

A one-day pilgrimage to Washington was made yesterday by 700 women taking Americanization courses in the New York City area under auspices of the National Council of Jewish Women. Led by Miss Celia Razovsky, of New York, executive secretary of the New York group, the delegation returned by train last night to New York.

A high light of their sojourn was a gathering on the west steps of the Capitol, where brief talks were made by Dr. William J. Cooper, Commissioner of Education, and Dr. L. R. Alderman, chief of the service division of the Office of Education. Both were presented by Maurice Bisgyer, executive director of the Jewish Community Center.

Dr. Cooper lauded the Americanization work and advised the visitors to note particularly the statues in the Capitol of American patriots who were foreign born or the children of foreign born.

Dr. Alderman spoke of the importance of learning English in order to strengthen their family and community ties, explaining how the father and children often obtain all the advantages of contacts and knowledge of the language, while the foreign-born mother remains home. He said that courses in citizenship and English are vital to bridge this gap.

After a lengthy sightseeing trip to Arlington Cemetery, the Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial and various other points of interest, the visitors assembled at the Jewish Community Center, where short talks were made by Mrs. Morris Cafritz, chairman of the Washington committee of the Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. Harry Bernton, president of the organization's Washington section; Miss Aline Solomons and Mrs. Dorothy C. Fox.

Garden Party Scheduled.

In the event of rain the garden card party to be held Tuesday and Wednesday for the benefit of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament and the Gentlewomen's League of Washington will be in the home of Mrs. John R. Devereux.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A New Idea in Golf.

MOST golf clubs furnish golfers with report cards on which they are asked to report on the work of the caddies. Why not, as a matter of fair play, issue cards to caddies so that they may report on the golfers? Something along this line:

Caddie's Report on Golfer.
(To be filled out and handed in at the completion of the round.)
Golfer's name. . . .
Golfer's score. . . .
Mark with a cross the characterization which best describes the golfer herein named:
Excellent. . .
Good. . .
No good.
Beneath contempt. . .
Dangerous to be allowed at large. . .

Notes.

WAS the above-named golfer fair, reasonable and a good sport at all times? . . .
Was he fair, reasonable and a good sport at any time?. . . .
Did he have one of those heavy cowhide bags designed to be carried by a pack mule? . . .
Was he profane, and if so, was his type of profanity stereotyped or educational . . .
Was he one of those golfers who cry "Watch it!" every time he gets a ball off the ground? . . .
Did he ask your advice on what club to use and then bark, "I knew I should have used my No. 4 instead of that thing!" after dubbing the shot? . . . .
Did he regard a lost golf ball or as the Hope Diamond? . . . .
In the search for a lost ball did he seem to regard you as a caddy getting $1 a round or a Scotland Yard detective after a $5,000 reward? . . .
Was he at any time guilty of the proverbial, "It ain't the ball that I mind, but I hate those extra strokes"? . . . .
Was he one of those golfers who let a foursome through rather than lose a wooden tee after his drive? . . .
DID he exclaim, "What am I doing, boy?" after every bad shot? . . .
On the water holes how many balls did he put into the lake and did he seem to think it a caddy's duty to swim under water to retrieve a ball? . . .
After missing any putts did he accuse you of rattling the clubs, casting a shadow or coughing just as he stroked the ball? . . .
How many times did he accuse you of handing him a club other than the one he asked for? . . . Did this ever happen after a good shot? . . .
Did he have a bad round, and if so did he show his teeth much? . . .
Did he snap at anybody? . . .
Did he bite you? . . .
Did he at any time pull a revolver or a knife? . . .
Was he a gentleman and a sportsman or a palooka and a cabbage worm? . . .
Would you caddy for him again some time or find your misery through other channels? . . .
Signed. CADDY.

Women to Plead For Cut in Arms

Will Request President to Instruct Delegates for Disarmament.

President Hoover on May 18, the date set for the Nation-wide observance of World Good-Will Day, will be requested by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom to instruct the American delegates to the 1932 world disarmament conference to work actively for "real disarmament."

In announcing the plans for the observance, Mabel Vernon, disarmament campaign director of the organization, said that President Hoover "has aided incalculably in stirring public opinion for disarmament by his speech before the International Chamber of Commerce."

"Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium; Lord Cecil and others in close touch with the international situation have declared that the success of the 1932 disarmament conference in cutting armament depends upon aroused public opinion," she added. "Undoubtedly failure of the conference will increase the danger of war. Why should not the United States lead the world on the way to disarmament."

LEAGUE LISTS PLAN FOR DRY ACT REPEAL

Rackemann Proposal Would Adopt System of Rum Traffic Regulation.

Boston, May 10 (A.P.).—The Constitutional Liberty League tonight made public "the Rackemann plan" for repealing national prohibition and replacing it with a system of regulation of the liquor traffic and abolition of the saloon. The plan was prepared by Charles S. Rackemann, president of the league, which is also the Massachusetts division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The plan proposes:

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment, preferably by means of State conventions called specifically for the purpose rather than by legislatures.

Repeal of the Volstead act.

Restoration of Federal supervision of the production, wholesale distribution and interstate transportation of liquor.

Restoration to the States of complete and final authority to prohibit, to regulate the manufacture, transportation and sale of liquor within their own borders.

Prevention of the return of the saloon by State laws restricting sale of liquor to be consumed on the premises to bonafide restaurants and hotels.

Added protection to States satisfied with prohibition by developing and perfecting Federal laws governing transportation of liquor through or across prohibition States.

Rackemann maintained that his plan was not in reality a very great undertaking and "will not require much time for accomplishment." He said dry States "might safely vote to inaugurate the new system, their own preferences being safeguarded and their autonomy being restored."

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 10 (A.P.).—For the third time within four months fears have been aroused that Prof. Alfred Wegener, head of the German expedition to Central Greenland, is dead.

Walter A. Strong Succumbs After Playing Golf Near His Residence.

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—Walter A. Strong, 47, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, fell dead of heart disease today at his home in suburban Winnetka.

Mr. Strong had played five holes of golf on a nearby course and had just returned home when he was stricken. His wife and five children were waiting for him at the dinner table when they heard a fall upstairs. Rushing to Mr. Strong's bedroom they found him lying on the floor dead.

Nephew of Lawson's Wife.

Dr. C. A. Alrich and Dr. Frederick Christopher were summoned and pronounced death due to heart disease.

Mr. Stone was a nephew of the wife of Victor F. Lawson, owner of the Daily News until his death in 1925. He was known as a keen newspaperman. He brought ability and unusual insight to his profession.

Mr. Strong, along with his interest in publications, also took a major part in civic and cultural affairs of Chicago. He was the president of the American Opera Society, organized two years ago for producing classical music in English.

Mr. Strong was born in Chicago, August 13, 1882, the son of Dr. Albert B. Strong, a surgeon. He was educated in the public schools of Chicago and in 1901 was graduated from the Lewis Institute as an engineer.

In 1912 he married Josephine Haviland Webster, daughter of the Chicago manufacturer, Towner K. Webster. Four sons and a daughter were born to them.
